Widespread Burglary Operation Uncovered In District

CARPENTER LANDS SAFELY

Three Arrested; Thousands Of Dollars In Loot Found

Three area men associated with the Dinsio Brothers Coal Co. have been arrested following raids last night on coal mines near Leetonia and Greenford which uncovered what district law enforcement agents call "one of the biggest burglary operations ever carried on in eastern Ohio."

What was described as "thousands and thousands of dollars worth" of stolen strip mining equipment and other items were uncovered at the two mines by lawmen from sheriff's departments, the state highway patrol and police from Columbiana, Mahoning, Harrison and Carroll Counties.

Arrested were Amil Alfred Dinsio, 26, and Harry Chamberlain, Jr., 35, both of North Lima. They were apprehended Wednesday night, following a chase during which a Harrison County deputy fired several shots in an attempt to halt a fleeing driver.

Released On Bonds

They pleaded not guilty to charges of breaking and entering and auto larceny. They were each released on $2,000 bond and bound over to the Harrison County September Grand Jury.

Other charges are expected to be filed in connection with the stolen equipment found during the raids at the Dinsio Brothers Coal Co. mines last night. "We feel there definitely is a connection," Mahoning County Chief Deputy Stanley Kreiler said today.

A third man connected with the mines reportedly has been arrested near Salem by authorities.

Allan Gibson, police chief at Leetonia, assisted with both raids last night.

At approximately 4 p.m. Wednesday, Columbiana County Deputy Sheriff James Miller got a search warrant from Judge Luther Donbar at Northwest Columbiana County Court here. He and several assistants went to the Dinsio mine located at the junction of Butcher Rd. and the Canfield-Lisbon Rd., about a half-mile west of Leetonia. The mine had been abandoned about one year ago.

Fires Another Broadside at AMA

Kennedy Firm on Medicare Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has made his no-compromise stand on medical care for the aged more emphatic than ever. He insists on weaving it into the Social Security system. He says the public wants it that way.

Firing another broadside at the American Medical Association Wednesday, Kennedy repeated his prediction that Congress will adopt his plan this year if it reaches the House and Senate floors. And he contended that despite AMA opposition, "more and more doctors are supporting it."

Kennedy heatedly attacked the AMA and Republican critics of his medical care program at his news conference—a conference dominated by his strong views on the big legislative controversy of 1962. The questioning elicited these comments and charges:

Kennedy said he does not plan to follow up his current proposal for payment of hospital, nursing home and outpatient bills with a plan to cover doctors' bills. He accused critics of talking through both sides of the mouth. They criticized it one day, he said, for "going too far in limiting the relationship between doctors and their patients, and on another day attacked it for not including doctors."

AMA spokesmen have denounced the plan as "a cruel hoax." Kennedy said the association used the same words in unsuccessfully opposing Social Security in the 1930s. The AMA may not support this bill, he said, "but I think the American people will, and I think more and more doctors are supporting it."

Would he accept a compromise that omitted Social Security financing?

No, he replied, Social Security is the heart of the bill.

The 25-minute conference, shortest in his experience as President, covered these other points:

Chinese refugees—he announced the United States would admit several thousand refugees from hungry Communist China. The Justice Department said Wednesday night the flow would begin from Hong Kong in about two weeks.

Estes—In view of the possibility a federal official investigating Billie Sol Estes was murdered, Kennedy was asked if Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman could justify saying the affair had been ballooned out of proportion. Let's not judge the case, Kennedy said, until the FBI and Texas authorities have completed their inquiry. Kennedy said grain is being shifted from Estes' storage bins into normal channels of trade in a way

Slaying Suspect Surrenders

Trio Held In Killing Of Two Detectives

NEW YORK (AP)—Police have their hands on all three ex-convicts accused of the holdup murders of two city detectives in Brooklyn.

The one who hid out the longest—Jerome Rosenberg—Surrendered Wednesday night to the New York Daily News in its Manhattan headquarters.

Notified by the News, Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin picked up Rosenberg in the editorial department and had him taken under heavy guard to a Brooklyn police station.

Police booked Rosenberg on a homicide charge shortly before dawn, after he had been questioned through the night and early morning and viewed by witnesses of last Friday's holdup. Detectives said he said he is innocent.

Only 6,153 Receive Free Sabin Vaccine

Only 6,153 persons — 3,300 of which were school children — received the Type 2 phase of oral Sabin vaccine for prevention of polio offered free of charge here yesterday.

This is 1,607 less than received Type 3 vaccine on the first day of the previous clinic.

Dr. William A. Kolozsi, public health chairman for the campaign, urges that the public complete their protection by obtaining inoculation which will be offered again Saturday at the Salem Senior High School and area clinics from 1 to 7 p.m.

The charge for the Sabin 3 and 1 Type vaccine was 50 cents but Type 2 is being given free by the Medical Society.

Salem Tool Co. Gets $86,750 Order

The Salem Tool Company of S. Ellsworth Ave. today was awarded an $86,750 contract by the U.S. Department of Interior for a large diameter boring machine to be used by the Bureau of Mines at the Anthracite Research Center at Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

According to James Wilson Sr., president of the local firm, the two-piece hydraulic-driven machine will be able to drill between 150 and 300 feet with a 12-inch auger. Completion date will be in about 10 months.

The machine will be used to experiment for better ways of mining anthracite and will also be used in the mining of coal.

FBI Investigating Marshall Death

1,000 Questioned In Estes Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators disclosed today their agents have questioned more than 1,000 persons in the widening Billie Sol Estes case.

And, said the informant, many, many more will be questioned before the Senate Investigations subcommittee is ready to start its hearings into whether Washington influence helped Estes build his rickety business empire.

The report came after President Kennedy related at a news conference Wednesday that the FBI has moved into the investigation of the mysterious death of Henry Marshall, a Texas farm official, shot to death a year ago while checking into Estes' dealings under the government cotton program.

The FBI declined to comment on the unusual circumstance of its entry into what normally would be a local police case.

Last June, when Marshall was found dead, shot five times, his death was written off as suicide.

U.S. Demands Phoumi Quit

Laotian Officials Blast Ultimatum

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Royal government officials reported today that the United States has demanded Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman of the pro-Western Vientiane regime, resign his Cabinet posts.

Phoumi, vice premier of Prince Boun Oum's government, controls the royal armed forces as defense and interior minister. The Kennedy administration blames him for blocking negotiations to set up a coalition government in Laos under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Responsible government officials said W. Averell Harriman, U.S. assistant secretary of state, summoned the Laotian ambassador in Washington and told him the United States has no more confidence in Phoumi.

Harriman reportedly said Phoumi must quit the government or the United States will be obliged to reconsider its aid to the Vientiane regime.

The Laotian officials charged Harriman with interference in Laos internal affairs.

They charged Harriman's stand was prompted by a personal quarrel he had with Phoumi when the American diplomat came to Vientiane in March to urge Boun Oum to join in coalition talks with Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong.

Reports from Washington previously said President Kennedy is backing the move to curtail Phoumi's power—preferably by getting him to yield his Cabinet posts and confine himself to purely military matters.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, heading home from France to set up talks with the two other princes, was delayed again today leaving Rangoon by stormy weather over his headquarters of Khanh Khay, in central Laos.

Capsule Misses Mark; Astronaut Sighted In Raft

LATE BULLETIN

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter was sighted floating in a life raft outside his floating Mercury space capsule shortly after 1:20 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, Mercury spokesman, relieved that Carpenter is safe, reported to newsmen that:

"A Navy P2V Neptune has reported sighting the spacecraft floating in the landing area, about 200 miles beyond the intended point of impact."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter was given the green light for a third orbit of the world today as he zipped over the west coast of the United States at 10:45 a.m. (EST).

Carpenter flashed over Cape Canaveral 99 miles high at 9:19 a.m. (EST), ending his first circuit. But a few moments later, the Indian Ocean tracking ship near Mozambique reported that the Aurora 7 was using up its supply of hydrogen peroxide fuel at a more rapid rate than anticipated.

"This does not yet mean the flight will be terminated early," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The blazing Atlas rocket rose majestically into a clear sky at 7:45 a.m. (EST) after a 45-minute delay because of visibility-limiting ground haze in the launching area.

Atlas Performed With Amazing Precision

Just as it did on Glenn's flight, the Atlas performed with amazing precision. With pinpoint accuracy it pushed the spacecraft through "a keyhole in the sky" at the desired speed and angle. If it had missed this spot in space 100 miles high and 500 miles north-east of the Cape, the Bermuda tracking station would have ordered Carpenter's craft back to earth immediately.

The control center reported five minutes after blastoff that Aurora 7 was in successful orbit and could remain aloft for seven circuits of the globe if necessary.

But the mission was planned for only three orbits, the same as Glenn's. Seven orbits would entail returning the astronaut's capsule to earth somewhere in the Pacific and would involve the deployment of great numbers of recovery vessels.

If the three-orbit mission was completed, flight time would be about four hours and 50 minutes. If all went well, the capsule would parachute into the Atlantic near Grand Turk island, 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral about 12:35 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Despite the extreme stresses of rocket acceleration, Carpenter calmly reported on conditions in the capsule. He said forces pressed him against his contour couch—in effect increasing the weight of his lean, trim body eight times its normal 155 pounds.

Reported on Capsule Instrument Readings

Shortly after insertion into orbit, Carpenter reported on cabin pressure, oxygen supply and other instrument readings in his capsule. He said all were in go condition and that he himself was in excellent shape.

Communicating with him from the control center was a veteran space traveler, astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who last year made a suborbital rocket trip.

After Aurora 7 was successfully in orbit, the astronaut reported the capsule had turned around 180 degrees as intended, so that he was riding upright and backward through space, with the capsule's blunt heat shield leading the way.

At this point he was in the buoyant world of weightlessness, the condition that results when a delicate balance is achieved between the outward pull of centrifugal force and the downward pull of the earth's gravity.

Mercury control center reported that the capsule was in an orbit ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth at a speed of 17,532 miles an hour.

At 8 a.m., Carpenter's Aurora 7 passed over the Canary Islands tracking station and he reported that he was exercising the manual controls. The steering system and the automatic controls were working properly and everything seemed normal in the capsule, he reported.

Proved Man Can Operate In Weightlessness

Glenn proved conclusively that man can operate in the strange world of weightlessness for at least a short period. Carpenter's job was to add to this knowledge by performing a number of tasks during the flight, during which he would be in a weightless state up to the time of re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Among the tasks scheduled during the flight were the release of a multicolored balloon and plastic confetti to test color and depth perception in space.

Insertion into orbit does not make the mission a success. More serious capsule trouble could develop than the problem Glenn had with his automatic control system.

And ahead lay the critical re-entry through the earth's atmosphere at the completion of flight.

Three reverse rockets at the base of the capsule were to be fired as Aurora 7 approached the west coast of the United States near the end of the third orbit.

This would slow the capsule so it would come out of orbit and make a gradual descent through searing re-entry heat up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Then Carpenter was to place his salvation in a successful deployment of two parachutes, landing in the planned recovery area and pickup by one of the recovery ships.

Tracking Stations Report All In Fine Shape

The Kano, Nigeria, tracking station made contact with Carpenter at 8:08 a.m. and reported everything was in fine shape.

Immediately after his capsule separated from the Atlas, Carpenter took over the manual controls to maneuver his spacecraft to get a look at the rocket as it fell away.

"I've got the booster in the center of the window," he reported by radio.

As the capsule swept high over the Indian Ocean halfway through the first orbit, and about 45 minutes after launching, Carpenter passed suddenly from daylight into darkness—the first of three day-night switches he was to encounter today. On each pass he also swept from spring in the United States to autumn over Australia.

The women of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. George's Church will hold a benefit Saturday at the Democratic headquarters on N. Market St. It will begin at 9 a.m.

WHEN THE CIRCLES of the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church met Tuesday, their new study theme was "Our National Missions."

Ruth Circle met with Mrs. Jay Eells, with 19 present. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Walter Eells, Mrs. Hurd. The spiritual life leader was Mrs. Frank Todd. The program chairman, Mrs. Charles Yoos, presented a panel consisting of Mrs. Harvey Everett, Mrs. Ray Lowry and Mrs. Floyd Baker, who took the parts of students of different nationalities to describe the difficulty they have in obtaining an education. Mrs. Yoos told of guidance counselor work among different nationalities in schools in New York City.

Mrs. Raney McCullough was hostess to 11 members of the Mary Circle, with Mrs. Bennett Taylor as assistant hostess. Mrs. Wanda Cunningham was the spiritual life leader, and the program was presented by Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Gregg Ramsey, Mrs. Richard Kennedy, Miss Ruth Bye and Mrs. Taylor. They held a panel discussion concerning education counselors and their problems with pupils at the mission schools.

NAOMI CIRCLE MEMBERS were received at the home of Mrs. Durelle McCamon, with 13 members and one guest attending. Mrs. Opal McCamon was the co-hostess. The spiritual life leader was Mrs. Warren Nold. Mrs. Allen Dickey, Mrs. John Rodu and Mrs. Durelle McCamon gave the program. They talked about the educational aspects of national missions.

Fourteen members of Esther Circle met with Mrs. Ronald Crawford. Co-hostesses were Mrs. James Foster and Mrs. Hoyt Sexton. Devotions were given by Mrs. Laura Christopher. The program was by Mrs. Wilmer Stookesberry, Mrs. S. E. Nold and Mrs. Glen Conn. Their program concerned the problem of youth and the counseling done by national missions.

Martha Circle had 15 present at the home of Mrs. Paul Morlan, with co-hostess Mrs. Frank Davies. The spiritual life leader was Mrs. David Miller, and the program was given by Mrs. Whitney Ingraham, Mrs. T. W. Liggett and Mrs. Robert Hendricks. They used three case histories of children from different rates trying to obtain an education.

With the Students

Two Mount Union College students from Salem, George Emery and Bob Morlan, have been elected officers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity for the coming year.

George, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Emery of 575 Highland Ave., will serve as recorder. A chemistry and language major, he is also a member of the soccer and lacrosse clubs.

Vice-president of the fraternity will be Bob Morlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Morlan of RD 1. He is a business administration major and is a member of the Current Business Forum and Student Christian Association.

Karen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith of 879 E. School St., a sophomore majoring in health and physical education at Kent State University, has been selected as a member of the varsity cheerleading squad for the second consecutive year.

She is a member of the Golden K Club and is serving on the publicity and recreation committees for the annual Boat Regatta Saturday.

First hiker to travel the entire length of the 2,050 Appalachian Trail was Earl V. Shaffer in 1948. He hiked for four months.

No Socialized Medicine Here

"British doctors are voting with their feet," reported Lyle C. Wilson of United Press International in an analysis of Britain's National Health Service.

British-trained doctors are leaving the United Kingdom to practice elsewhere, preferably in the United States and Canada. Their places are being taken by trainees from India and Pakistan, chiefly.

Meanwhile, the number of medical students training in the United Kingdom is decreasing, which will mean a still more serious deficit in well-trained doctors in years to come.

What has it meant to Britain's National Health Service? Has it turned Britons against it? Mr. Wilson's report contains this statement:

"The United Kingdom health service is, in fact, socialized medicine. NHS is popular with British voters. They would drive from office any politician who sought to repeal it."

HERE, THEN, is the issue in the country most often cited as the horrible example of what happens under socialized medicine.

Though nothing of the kind is even being proposed in the United States, British experience is frequently cited here as the reason for avoiding socialized medicine. The fact is there is no analogy between conditions here and in Britain before National Health Service was started. Socialized medicine would have no appeal in the United States. It had a powerful appeal in Britain.

Medical care in Britain was virtually non-existent for people outside the largest cities. Competent doctors were scarce and their services were not made available to the masses.

Socialized medicine had become a dynamic political issue by the end of World War II. It was the Labour party's great chance to show the British masses what could be done in their behalf by a socialist-minded government. For millions of Britons it was their first medical care. Small wonder they swamped it at the outset with demands for eye glasses, dental care, hearing aids and appliances to help the crippled and deformed.

THERE IS nothing comparable to that condition in the United States. The problem here is not how to make medical care available but how to meet the costs of medical care for aged people without earning power or personal savings—not the bill for the doctor, which usually is the smallest and the easiest to defer, but the hospital bill.

Medically, Britain's National Health Service has been a failure as far as British doctors are concerned. But sociologically, politically—and medically—it has been a success as far as British voters are concerned. That is the shape of the issue there.

Nothing proposed here suggests that it will be the shape of the issue in the United States where medical care is taken for granted—so much so, in fact, that the country has a problem of how to cope with the cost of caring for citizens whose life span outdistances their earning span thanks to good medical care.

A Purely Nonpartisan Matter

A representative in Congress rose up the other day to wonder if Caroline Kennedy's ponies would be cared for by additional White House guards, if not being cared for by guards already on duty.

The answer was No. Caroline's two ponies are taken care of by the White House gardener when they are not at Glen Ora in Virginia. Presumably the representative was satisfied. A Republican from Iowa, he was trying to make a point against hiring additional members of the uniformed police who watch over the White House and its spacious grounds.

The point he was trying to make was improper. The way the White House family lives and what it does is not a proper subject for discussion in Congress. It is not, in fact, a proper subject for discussion anywhere.

It was not proper for heads of labor unions like Walter Reuther to carp about Dwight Eisenhower's fondness for golf and bridge. It was not proper for Harry Truman's detractors to talk about his liking for poker plus "bourbon and branch." It was not proper for Franklin Roosevelt's critics to complain about a White House swimming pool or the grandchildren.

The American people give the White House to their first families as an official residence. For some of them it has been a hardship to live there. The structure until recently was not even structurally safe. Even in prime condition it is more institutional than homey.

Ordinary decency and courtesy demand restraint in all comments about the White House family in residence. If Dolly Madison wants to dry the wash in the East Room, that's her business. It's the Kennedy's business what guests they invite and how they choose to entertain them. It was Gen. Eisenhower's business if he wanted to practice chip shots and who takes care of Caroline Kennedy's ponies is no one's business at all.

There simply are some areas where political niggling is out of place. The White House is one of them.

Equal Time For Hoffa

James R. Hoffa, the tireless Teamster, has come out with such a fascinating thesis no one can afford to shrug it off. It may be the passkey to his thoughts.

His government, according to Mr. Hoffa, is persecuting him. It is muzzling other things it should be doing instead, such as conducting foreign relations more successfully and putting the domestic economy into boomtime orbit.

This is a familiar pattern of thought, though it seems novel in the application Mr. Hoffa makes of it.

In more familiar circumstances, it's the line of reasoning that says we shouldn't be building highways as long as there still need for more hospitals; that we shouldn't send food abroad while there are people hungry at home.

This exclusivism sometimes is sugarcoated by calling it "one, thing at a time," which doesn't mean the same thing. "One thing at a time" is a formula for personal concentration.

Society requires concentration on many things at once, including the sometimes questionable acts of the Hoffas and also the Billie Sol Estes. Mr. Hoffa thinks he may be under persecution currently to conceal the Estes scandal, but he flatters himself. Even Jimmy Hoffa will take a back seat if the Estes scandal keeps knocking.

The most remarkable thing about the thinking of the Teamsters chief is the probability he really believes the federal government makes a stupid choice between claring up confusion in Laos and clearing up confusion in Hoffaland, which is a great deal bigger than Laos.

It may never have occurred to the head teamster that the government might be expected by its other taxpayers to give foreign policy and Hoffa equal time.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Secretary General of United Nations has enough family sorrow as well as troubles all over world without being bothered by a cat in New York, but life is like that. U. Thant, the top U.N. field man, kept a cat in a New York apartment and it clawed up enough draperies, rugs and furniture to bring on a legal hassle.

It was a sublet apartment. Mr. Thant paid for the damages. But the apartment and its upkeep are paid by United Nations and it would have been interesting if the cat crisis had been put on the agenda.

Russia, which doesn't pay its dues and is no champion of the secretary general, would probably have given both Thant and his cat a hard time, refusing to pay a dime for cat-claw damage. It might have been the first nation to veto a cat.

"The U.S.S.R. considers this cat and its apartment behavior to be an issue raised to stir up further world uneasiness and hinder peace," we can imagine Soviet delegate declaring.

"The Soviet government is a friend of cats, but it sees grave danger in discussing them at this time."

He might in wrath cry "For the peace of the world the U.S.S.R. demands that this cat be tabled, and before it has kittens."

How would England and France vote? England might go along with the U.S. position that U.N., through supplying the apartment, should reimburse Mr. Thant for payments for damage. But De Gaulle would probably vote "no."

Could the neutralists be depended on to stand firmly with Uncle Sam, the Secretary General and the cat?

Situation would offer fine chance for

Adlai Stevenson to get a few laughs demanding, "To the arguments that a cat has no place, let me say that its presence could be helpful in settling the questions whether some of us are MICE or MEN."

India would approach the cat issue with great caution, proposing so many amendments to any resolution that any spirited cat would quit the premises. From Mr. Nehru might come a plea, "India favors restraint. Hasty action can be unwise. Let the matter go over until next year, in the hope the entire cat issue will go away."

New York State Housing Board is in Thant-and-Cat act charging that man who sublet apartment boosted price illegally. U.N. has to pay the bill anyway. (Keep this rent item off the agenda, please. One crisis at a time.)

STAN MUSIAL, famed ballplayer, is getting an honorary degree from an Illinois college. And why not? These honorary degree ceremonies have long seemed stuffy and colorless, but there seems to be a trend for color.

Musial's degree will be Doctor of the Humanities, because of his influence on young and old. A diamond star who sets a fine example of sportsmanship and general behavior is an inspiration. But our guess is that Stan the Man will feel uncomfortable in a gown instead of a baseball suit. Pace is pretty slow at these functions and a long ball means nothing.

It is charged that Israeli farmers feeding chickens with surplus U.S. grain, sent the eggs to Fidel Castro's Cuba in exchange for sugar, the export of which Uncle Sam is trying to limit. (Set the American taxpayer up in the next alley, please!)

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A machine gun spurted at exactly 6 p.m., April 24 in the yard of Bangkok's Bangkokwong prison. The slugs riddled a man into a sieve. This was a tough move in a tougher political chess game. The dead pawn was Ruam Wongphand. He had been a leader of the prae-dium of the underground Communist party in Thailand.

When last I was in Bangkok, Comrade Ruam had slipped into Peiping for tactical training as a political and military leader of guerrilla cadres. From Peiping he had gone on to Moscow for political indoctrination. Soon he slipped back into Siam, the land of the gentle people.

His assignment was to rip away at the inside of Thailand so it would be soft and fall easily as Communist military force pointed at the borders.

There are many like Ruam. No marine battalions can get at these agents. Only counterintelligence.

MEN LIKE RUAM and his cadres are the "unseen" enemy. It is their type of invasion which is sometimes tougher to fight than actual Communist combat troops.

Ruam was a scientist in his field. The Sino-Soviets trained him well, for they leave nothing to chance. So, while you're watching our Marines at the Laos-Thai border, look well at the Communist infiltration techniques in this land to which we are so devoted that we must put American troops back into its far-off jungle terrain.

There are 25½ million people in Thailand — of whom some 3 million are Chinese. Into these Chinese Communities Peiping has woven a network of underground cells. Our State Department intelligence believes there are some 5,000 members of the "Chinese Communist Party - Thailand." This underground has secret schools and newspapers.

It works through Thai-Chinese social and cultural associations in Thailand. It has commercial businesses as fronts. It concentrates in Bangkok, many inland towns, and on the Laos and Malaya border areas.

It also set up a secret Mao Tse-tung type commune in the rice-rich province of Supanburi. On Feb. 23 the police raided it. It had been operating for more than three years. Many of the farmers who brought their produce to the rice mill just did not realize they were being duped into living a Peiping, China type existence.

Along with their rice, their brains were being washed.

THERE IS ANOTHER vulnerable group inside Siam. This is the 90,000 Vietnamese minority. They are in Northeast Thailand—right in the Laos border area.

They have been heavily infiltrated by Communist cadres. The potential for sabotage, espionage and actual violence now is enormous.

It is among the Siamese that the Communist underground has had its failures. Actual Thai Communist membership has run down to about 200 since the outlawing of the regular Thailand Communist party in 1952.

It was the assignment of Ruam Wongphand to build a Communist movement. One tactic was to impersonate Buddhist monks or subvert them if possible. One such monk, whose religious name was Phra Phimol Dharma, now plain Art Asapho, was discovered and defrocked.

Ruam's tricks and talents were many. He was part of the apparatus which distributed a magazine called "Ratchak" "The Patriot."

He had well stocked caches of Peiping-Chinese propaganda neatly printed after being translated into Thai.

THIS LITERATURE promised the Thais pie in the sky. Literally it said, comes the revolution and the people all will have land, cows, cars, private homes and soft government jobs.

Ruam never lacked for money of all countries. Thus he was able to operate a network of secret "schools" in Bangkok itself.

To these concealed meeting places the Communist apparatus would bring groups of three and four prospective political guerrillas for training.

They would come at night, sometimes blindfolded, but always unknown of their destination or how to find it again.

Constantly these units were brought into Bangkok to meet their leader and to remain for a three-day indoctrination course. This was the capsule form of what Ruam received in Peiping and Moscow. Then back into the countryside would go the Communist organizing teams.

Ruam was captured in a police raid on Feb. 23. The police were tough. He was tough. The government was tougher because the stakes are high in the inner-political war—namely, freedom.

Medical Care Debate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Real Issue Is Over Method of Financing

Everybody is for medical care for the aged. Republicans and Democrats, critics and advocates of specific legislation alike — all recognize that the sick must be cared for always.

The real debate is over what method, what plan, what means of financing shall be adopted. Demagogues will not help to find the solution.

President Kennedy's speech on Sunday was not an adequate outline of the basic issues. He talked off-the-cuff on a television hookup and said some things he never would have said if he had prepared his speech in advance. There were, for instance, sentences like these:

"I visited twice, yesterday and once today, a hospital, where doctors labor for a long time, to visit my father. It isn't easy — it isn't easy. He can pay his bills, but otherwise I would be. And I'm not as well off as he is. But what happens to him and to others when they put their life savings in, in a short time."

It so happens that the elder Kennedy is reportedly worth more than $100 million, and the President himself, it has been estimated in the press reports, is worth a sum way up in the millions—some say $10 million.

The above quotation might give the impression that the President was worrying about hardships upon the wealthy. Actually, he wasn't.

Later on, in the same speech, he said the millionaires would not mind contributing $12 a month to Social Security and that, anyway, "the national government, through the tax laws, already takes care of them, because over 65 they can deduct all their medical expenses."

The President certainly wasn't describing a situation analogous to that which confronts many people. His plan calls for an increase in Social Security taxes — in some cases by as much as 17 per cent. The new tax will apply to 74 million persons under Social Security.

All this is designed to take care of the minority who may get sick in old age and have to go to a hospital or nursing home. The new project, however, doesn't provide payments for doctors' bills, but only hospital costs and nursing care over and above the first $90.

Opponents insist that the needy can be taken care of by a direct appropriation by Congress each year without raising the Social Security taxes. The objection of the President to this is that it requires a "means test" or what he called in his Sunday speech "pauper's oath."

The fact is that the document signed by the patient would be confidential. It's like his income tax return, which certainly is not open to public view.

MANY PERSONS who "go on relief" have to sign certain papers. They don't seem to mind a "means test." The government could, of course, designate by another name the money to cover "refund" on previously paid taxes.

Persons who are 65 years of age or over and who now are without means would hardly object to a "refund" of what they have paid before over the years to cover a variety of social-welfare programs of the government that didn't benefit them directly.

There's a law on the statute books now to take care of the aged who are sick. It is called the Kerr-Mills bill, passed in 1960. It matches funds put up by the states to care for those who cannot pay their medical bills. It covers doctors and nursing as well as hospital bills. It is in operation in many states.

Funds for hospital bills for the aged can be provided through private insurance or from general taxes and thus avoid another cut in "take-home pay" for the workers of America. The average employee realistically considers his take-home pay as the net amount available to him for current expenses, whether he or she is 21 years old or 60.

The added Social Security tax for medical care for the aged is estimated at $1.6 billion for the first year and would rise to $1.9 billion in five years. This means that the total take-home pay of the employee and the profits of corporations will be cut by that amount. For the employer pays half of the extra social security tax increase.

Also when an item of $1.6 billion is added to wage costs in the national economy, it is eventually reflected in higher wages and higher prices. Workers are promptly told by the labor unions that the cut in take-home pay will be offset by an increase in wages.

A DIRECT appropriation by Congress could eventually mean less expense than the Social Security levy. It could be imposed through the general tax structure on those who could best afford to pay it.

The administration plan, moreover, doesn't cover everybody. There are, for instance, 9 million persons in the labor force, including the self-employed, who are not covered now by Social Security. Also, about 3 million individuals already 65 years of age or older are not eligible for Social Security benefits and would receive no medical-care aid under the Kennedy plan.

So it isn't a case of hard-hearted folks opposing medical care for the aged. Everybody is in favor of this benefit. But it is a case of hard-headed financing that will put the least burden on the middle-aged and the young, so many of whom for long years ahead are going to be paying to the government money for some things their families may never need. Systems of voluntary insurance are popular nowadays and are gradually covering more and more people.

There is supposed to be political mileage, however, for the administration in raising the issue of medical care for the aged and giving the impression that the critics are cruel persons who are opposed to providing such care.

Appointment Irks Aussies

By ZELL RABIN

SYDNEY, Australia — There is widespread surprise and some disappointment in official Australian circles over the appointment of William Battle as the next U.S. Ambassador to Australia.

Officials are disappointed because Mr. Battle, a comparative amateur, is succeeding William Sebald, a career diplomat.

Australians had hoped that the ambassadorship would be filled by an outstanding diplomatic or public figure as an indication of importance that Washington felt toward Canberra.

MR. BATTLE'S appointment, coming immediately after Secretary of State Dean Rusk's visit, and Australia's willingness to help American forces in South Viet Nam, heightens the feeling that Canberra is being treated with some indifference.

One newspaper deploring the appointment, dismissed Mr. Battle, a Virginia, lawyer, as "an amateur from Dixie."

Still to be cleared up is reason why the Administration cooled on its reported original choice for the post—Dr. Erwin Griswold, Dean of the Harvard Law School.

Mr. Battle, a 41-year-old lawyer from Charlottesville, rescued President Kennedy from a Pacific island in 1943 and helped him during the presidential campaign. This has led most Australians to conclude that his appointment is little more than a political gesture by a grateful President.

THE MASS CIRCULATION Sunday Mirror, in an angry editorial said: "To the people of Charlotteville, Va., Mr. William Battle's appointment as Ambassador to Australia came as a distinct shock. Mr. Battle says it was a shock to him. And it was certainly a shock to us.

"Mr. Battle no doubt is a fine Southern gentleman but his sole qualification for the job appears to be that he rescued Lt. Kennedy from the drink in the Pacific war. There is an understandable bond between the President and his savior. He may also feel he has a debt to pay Mr. Battle for loyal electioneering in Virginia. But should he pay it with Australia?"

"Mister Kennedy has appointed some first class ambassadors like (F. Kenneth) Galbraith in India, (Edwin O.) Reischauer in Japan, (Llewellyn E.) Thompson in Russia and (George F.) Kennan in Yugoslavia. In the likely event of Mr. Battle, a small town lawyer turning out to share their diplomatic talents we shall be delighted. But in the meantime we shall be keeping a sharp eye on the amateur from Dixie."

Paul Dicki was elected president of the Happy Boys 4-H Club of Franklin Square when they met recently in the home of the leader, Lawrence Wilms.

Other officers are Garry McClish, vice president; John Wilms, secretary; Tom Entriiken, treasurer; Rusty Stoffer, health leader; Mike Stoffer, reporter, and Jim Entriiken, song and recreation leader.

Butler Jolly Workers

Gaila Cameron entertained members of the Butler Jolly Workers 4-H Club recently.

The demonstration contest in July was discussed by the group. Members will meet at 10:30 a.m. Sunday to attend church in observance of Rural Life Sunday.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed following the business meeting.

The group will meet June 4 at 7 p.m. in the home of Sandy Wendland.

Guilford 4-H'ers

The meeting was opened by Judy Batzli, president, when members of the Guilford 4-H'ers gathered recently in the home of Sandy and Bonnie Parks. Answer to roll call was "What I Do for a Pastime."

Plans were completed for the group to take part in the Rural Life Sunday program at New Garden church.

Sharyn Gorka and Sandy Parks gave a team demonstration on "How to Build a Fire."

Visitors, Karleen Stoudt and Vicki Davis, were welcomed.

24 Countians Tour St. Elizabeth Hospital

Twenty-four members of the Columbiana County heart Council toured the catheterization and surgical departments of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Youngstown Wednesday.

The group heard a talk by Dr. Leonard P. Caccamo on the origin of the hospital's heart department, its improvements during the past seven years and the team of heart specialists at the hospital.

Dr. Elias Saadi spoke on catheterization and diagnostic procedures. Films on heart surgery and diagnostic procedures were shown.

Army Recruiter Sets Up New Quarters

The U.S. Army recruiting station will open quarters at 115 S. Broadway, above Konnerth's jewelry store, June 1, M. Sgt. Rocco Minnette announced today.

The recruiting station is abandoning its offices in the old Post Office building because that building is no longer occupied.

Hours will be Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 8 to 12 noon, Sgt. Minnette said. The phone number is ED 2-4324.

"HOW BOOTS Befooled the King" was presented by the 6th grade students of Mrs. Hilda Konnerth when members of the McKinley School Parent - Teachers Assn. met Monday evening in the school auditorium.

Mrs. J. E. Burford, vice president, presided at the business session, when officers for the 1962-63 school year were installed.

Following the meeting a reception was held honoring the 6th graders.

The next meeting of the organization will be in September.

MRS. DONALD SMITH of 684 Jefferson St. was hostess to members of the Amvet Auxiliary recently. Mrs. Torch Nedelka presided at the meeting which was opened with prayer by Mrs. Smith.

State and national reports were read and it was decided that the order will send two gifts to the state convention in Cleveland June 15-17, to be used as prizes. Donations will be sent to the State Carillon and hospital funds. Reservations are being taken for attendance to the "One O'Clock Club" in Cleveland June 15.

Plans were completed for the unit to march in the Memorial Day parade following which there will be a covered picnic at the Alex Costa farm on Goshen Road. A certificate has been received from national headquarters in honor of 100 percent renewal of membership of the Salem auxiliary.

The door prize was awarded to Mrs. Nedelka and refreshments served by the hostess.

The group will meet June 12 at 6 p.m. for a wiener roast at Centennial Park. Members are requested to bring wieners, buns and table service. Following the meal, election of officers will be held.

PROBLEMS OF rearing children were discussed by Mrs. Jerry Stayton at a recent meeting of the Towerview Homemakers at the home of Mrs. James Menning of Cider Mill Rd.

Plans were made for a family picnic July 21 at Woodland Lake near Homeworth. For the next meeting June 21 the group will play miniature golf at Arrowhead Lake in Columbiana and dine at Heck's.

On the picnic committees are Mrs. Homer Althouse and Mrs. Stayton, food, and Mrs. Robert Kekel and Mrs. Lester Wilson, recreation.

MRS. WILLIAM HAYES of Lisbon entertained members of the Linnea Nelson Missionary Circle of the First Baptist Church recently.

Mrs. Leland Taylor presented devotions and Mrs. Lester Older gave the program using the book "Let My Heart Be Broken" by Richard Gebman.

MUSIC PUPILS of Nadine Barnes presented their spring recital Saturday evening in Westville Congregational Christian Church.

Those participating were Lana Griffith, JoAnne Griffith, Cindy Weingart, Kathleen Walton, Beth Henderson, Susan Diehl, Glenda Stine, Kathy Weingart, Bonnie Flemir, Ruth Jackson, Kay Barnes, Janice Dunn and Joyce Calvin. Lois Whinnery was accompanist for the vocalists.

Following the musical part of the program slides of her recent trip to Europe were shown by Miss Barnes.

MRS. LOUIS WEIRICK presided when members of the January group of the First United Presbyterian Church met recently in the home of Mrs. James Hollinger of Benton Road.

"New Life in Christ" was the theme of devotions presented by Mrs. Powell Schmauch and Mrs. Rolin Herron was in charge of the program.

Mrs. George Smith of E. State St. will be hostess to the group at 9 a.m. June 6.

MEMBERS OF JUST-A-MERE Club met recently at Aldom's Restaurant at Alliance for their annual Mother's Day dinner.

Following the dinner they attended a showing of "State Fair" at Mount Union Theater.

Mrs. Elby Weingart has invited the club to a "come as you wish" party at her home July 28.

THE MILLVILLE SEXTET will play and Ed Leipper will call for the benefit round and square dance at 9 p.m. Friday in the Millville Community Club.

Refreshments will be in charge of Delores Baird, Doris Pitts and Janet Burbeck.

Next meeting will be June 18.

Plan Open House For Robert Snyder, Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder of 443 S. Lincoln Ave. will have "open house" Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. in honor of the recent marriage of their son, Robert Lynn Snyder of Washington, D. C., and Miss Catherine Entzminger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Entzminger of Lakeland, Fla.

The couple were married in the chapel of the Congress Heights Baptist Church in Washington, D. C., Feb. 22, by Rev. Joseph C. Strother Jr.

Book Club Holds Guest Night Dinner

"My 30 Years Back Stage at the White House," by Lillian Parks, was reviewed by Mrs. G. E. Byers when members of the Salem Book Club observed their annual guest night with dinner in the First United Presbyterian Church Monday evening.

The couple recalled the candid reminiscence of a woman who for 30 years was a White House maid and seamstress.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Gertrude Stewart and Mrs. Frank Hoskins, club president, welcomed the 62 members and guests present.

Mrs. H. C. Snyder introduced Mrs. Thomas Cope who played "I've Been With Jesus", "When God is Near" and "Over-shadowed" on the vibraharp.

Mrs. Hoskins presented the gavel to the incoming president, Mrs. John England, who announced her officers and committees.

Tables were decorated with potted red geraniums and lighted with tall white tapers in white holders. Favors were miniature artificial potted plants.

The program was arranged by Mrs. John R. King, Mrs. Charles Wernet and Mrs. Frank Stoerckel; the music by Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. George Huston and Mrs. Glenn Bates. Members of the hospitality committee were Mrs. C. A. Greenisen, Mrs. F. N. Orr, Mrs. Ralph Long and Mrs. Richard Fenstermaker.

A picnic June 4 at Centennial Park will conclude the club's 54th season.

Dorothy Cooper Feted At Shower Party

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
I have a hint that I have used for years and years and still people tell me they never heard of it.

When you put a new cotton ironing board cover on (or a clean one after you have washed it) wet it and wring it out fairly dry, then put it on the ironing board and let it dry before using.

It will shrink slightly, fit the ironing board perfectly and you won't have one wrinkle!

Mrs. Herman Thirtz

Dear Heloise:
Does everyone now that when fastening hose to garters, if they hook the back garters first, the seam will always be straight?

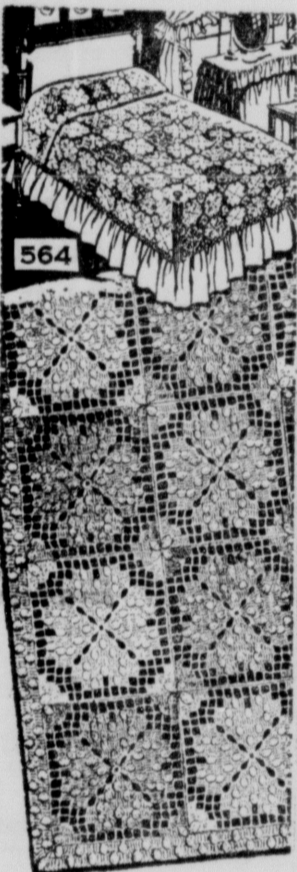

Antoinette Heller

Dear Antoinette:
I have another one: Did you now that some garters can be detached and turned over and the button won't show through your dress?

On two way stretch girdles, they can be worn wrong side out IF the garters are not detachable... but-most are.

Dear Heloise:
We like to dine by candlelight.

Sometimes the candles are too

Jane Bughee

Dear Heloise:
Here's a recipe for fingerprints for children. It's wonderful for mothers who have to make their own.

Mix one cup of corn starch (or laundry starch) with enough cold water to make a smooth, thin paste. Add one cup of flaked soap chips and one-half cup of salt.

Put this in a double boiler and add one quart of water and cook until it's thick. Increase amount of water if necessary.

Beat this with an egg beater, put into empty baby food jars and mix some various food coloring in the separate jars.

One teaspoon of glycerine makes this more pliable and easier on the hands. The salt acts as a preservative.

Mrs. Blair Akers

Dear Mothers:
Additionally, here are some hints from other mothers.

Broken rolls of wallpaper can be bought for a "song." These are great for little kiddies to paint on. Use the backside of the wallpaper for fingerprinting.

Some mothers add vanilla to the paint. Yep, the kind we use in cooking. Smells good.

Many teachers have written that they buy oil of cloves (cost about a quarter at a drug store) and add a few drops to the mixture.

Suggested thought: Put newspapers down on a table before a child starts painting on anything! Sure saves lots of nerves and cleaning up messes later.

Back-to-Back Homers Give Indians 5-4 Win Over Chisox

Yankees Bomb Athletics 13-7

Bosox Dump Twins; Senators Whip LA

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer Remember the hard-luck Dick Donovan of just a year ago, with that disheartening string of five successive one-run losses? His luck is a little better this season and so's his record—8-0.

The big right-hander became the first eight-game winner in the majors Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians cut loose with another eleven-hour home run attack and overpowered the Chicago White Sox 5-4. Pinch hitting rookie Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian connected back-to-back in the ninth inning as the Tribe won for the third time in a week with ninth inning homers.

By winning the squeaker, Cleveland remained a half game behind the top-place Yankees, who buried Kansas City 13-7 with a nine-run eighth inning triggered and capped by rookie Joe Pepitone's home run blasts. Boston beat Minnesota 6-1 dropping the Twins to third, one game back. Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-2, while Detroit and the Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

Donovan was tagged for 10 hits, one a two-run homer by Al Smith in the first, but singled in one run himself as the Indians stayed close to the White Sox all the way.

Dom Zanni, who had pitched strongly in relief of Juan Pizarro, was the victim of Cleveland's uprising in the ninth. Luplow led off with his score-tying homer into Comiskey Park's lower left field deck and Essegian promptly zeroed in on the same sector.

Pepitone and fellow rookie Phil Linz, both fill-ins for the injury-hobbled Yankees, produced handsomely in the explosive rout of the A's. Held to four hits by Dan Pfister and trailing 7-4 going into the last of the eighth, the Yanks sent 12 men to bat in the inning. Pepitone kicked off the rally with a homer and climaxed it with another with two aboard, becoming the 15th major leaguer to homer twice in one inning. Linz took over at third after Clete Boyer was hit on the wrist by a pitch in the third, homered in the seventh with one on for his first hit in the majors, and sent the Yanks ahead with a two-run single in the big ninth.

Tex Clevenger, called up from the minors Tuesday was the winner with one inning of relief and Diego Segui took the loss. Jimenez whacked a homer for the A's. The Red Sox put a halt to their eight-game skid behind the seventh hitting of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz. Gary Geiger had a homer and double in Boston's 13-hit offensive against Don Lee and two Minnesota relievers. Ed Bresnold also homered. Rich Rollins' homer accounted for the Twins' lone run.

Pete Burnside pitched a nine-inning shutout for the last-place Senators, who broke away from the Angels in the first three innings with seven runs—four of them unearned. Ted Bowsfield was the losing pitcher.

The first 1962 shutout by a Cincinnati Red pitcher was turned in by southpaw Jim O'Toole.

Locals End Season With 7-0 Record

Six Records Broken As 9th Grade Tracksters Blast Columbiana

Coach Bing Newton's ninth grade tracksters closed their 1962 season undefeated as they bombarded Columbiana's Clippers 95-25 Wednesday at Reilly Stadium for their seventh consecutive win.

Five ninth and one eighth grade records were set as the locals dominated their opponents in all but one event.

New ninth grade marks were set in the high hurdles, the 100-yard dash, shot put, pole vault and high jump while a new eighth grade mark was established in the 220-yard dash.

Kirk Ritchie broke teammate Allen Phillips' mark of 19.3 in the high hurdles as he ran the event for the first time this year. Ritchie was timed at 18.6 to place ahead of Dick Ehrhart. Phillips was third.

NBA Approves Transfer Of Warriors to San Francisco

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco is in, but still faces a fight; Philadelphia is out, only after a fight; and no one seems to know about Baltimore.

That's the situation in the National Basketball Association today after the league's board of directors spent another all day session discussing sales, transfer and expansion.

The major development was league approval of the sale and transfer of the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco for the 1962-63 season. It leaves Philadelphia, long an NBA stronghold, without a professional team.

The status of Baltimore, which has applied for a franchise and been given tentative approval, remained in a maybe so, maybe no status. NBA officials are known to have privately expressed discontent with the league's present nine-team makeup, but whether Baltimore will be granted a franchise apparently depends on a suitable arena.

Johnny Longden, still a jockey at 55, has ridden mounts that earned $21,118,727 through 1961.

NFL Boss Gets $10,000 Raise

Also Gets Bonus In Vote of Confidence

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has extended another solid vote of confidence in Commissioner Pete Rozelle by voting him a $10,000 bonus and boosting his salary $10,000 to $60,000 a year for five years.

In less than two years, the successor to the late Bert Bell has led the league to a clear cut court victory over the rival American Football League and helped clear the way for a new $9.3 million 2-year single network (CBS) television deal.

As a result of the court victory the league no longer lives under the shadow of a huge damage action. Under the new TV contract each club is expected to get $320,000 a year from the TV rights.

HS Spring Sports Championships At Ohio State Begin

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's big athletic plant will be swarming with schoolboy athletes Friday when Ohio's annual high school spring sports championships get under way.

More than 1,000 youngsters are expected for the two-day trials in track-field, baseball, golf, and tennis Friday and Saturday.

Rick Gregg placed first in the mile run as he ran the four laps in 5:16.0 to edge the Clippers' Allen Roberts. Coy topped the 440-yard dash in 59.1.

In the two remaining track events, Ritchie sprinted over the low hurdles in 24.0 and Norm Whinnery took the 880-yard run in 2:24.0.

Tom Schneider and Berry Sabol placed first and second, respectively, in the discus, with the winning throw going 101-0. Fitch won the broad jump with a leap of 16-3 1/2.

Mets Lose to Los Angeles 3-1

Phillies Notch 10-7 Victory Over League-Leading S. F.

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Philadelphia's flip-flop Phillies, rejoining the National League's more respected members for the 1962 campaign, have continued San Francisco's skid and cut another length off the Giants' bulge in that tightening pennant race.

Playing solid ball after shaking off the effects of last year's disastrous 23-game losing streak and a last-place finish 46 games back, the Phillies thumped the league-leading Giants 10-7 Wednesday night.

It was the third consecutive loss for the Giants who up until a week ago were pulverizing the opposition with 17 victories in 20 games and had built a 4 1/2-game lead.

Now the Phils, striving to climb into the first division of the expanded 10-club circuit, have cut the Giants edge to 1 1/2 games while moving into a virtual tie for sixth place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved into second place with a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets behind Don Drysdale's four-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened.

The Giants battled back with three runs each off relievers Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun but fell short.

The Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Warren Spahn posted the 314th triumph of his career with a five-hitter.

Tony Taylor and rookie Ted Savage each stroked a double and two singles, scoring three runs apiece, to pace the Phillies' 13-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened.

The Dodgers cracked a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly knocked in the winner before Frank Howard's grounder added an insurance run. The victory was Drysdale's sixth against three losses. Roger Craig (2-5) went the distance, allowing 11 hits.

The Pirates jumped on Larry Jackson (4-5) for four first inning runs. Ken Boyer homered for the Cards and Bill White went 4-for-4 but it wasn't enough. Harvey Haddix (3-2) got the victory with relief help from Tom Sturdivant and Diomedes Olivo.

Offy Engines Hold Top Marks At Indianapolis

By DALE BURGESS Associated Press Sports Writer INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the Memorial Day 500-mile race and builder of the old reliable Offenhauser engine, says he and partner Dale Drake have no firm plans for a new power plant.

"It's not our fault that we have no competition at the Speedway," says the amiable Californian. "Anybody can build an engine to the race specifications."

Offys have won every Indianapolis race since 1946, when George Robson took the first pre-war 500 in a six-cylinder Thorne-Sparks car. Most of the vehicles in that event were so elderly the question was whether anybody would finish.

All of the qualifiers in the 46th 500 next Wednesday are powered by Offy 4s except th rear-engine Thompson Special with a modified V-8 Buick Special block, which grand prix driver Dan Gurney will start.

The remarkable thing about the Offy is that the design hasn't been changed for 32 years. The winning speed in the 500 has gone up from 100 to more than 139 miles an hour in that time. The qualifying record has jumped from 122 to 150.

There have been improvements in metals and changes in bore and stroke, but the Offy still is substantially the same engine Leo Goosen designed for Harry Miller 32 years ago. Fred Offenhauser, Miller's shop foreman, took over the plant and gave the engine his name. Meyer and Drake bought it from Offenhauser in 1946.

Italian Club Rips Bliss 11-2

Dems Bow To Lisbon Hotel

Girls Featured In Tonight's Action

Rapping out 12 hits, the Italian Club routed Salem Bliss 11-2 in Class A Softball action at Kelley Field Wednesday night. In the only other game scheduled, Lisbon Hotel downed the Salem Democrats 6-2.

Larry Ingaldue had a perfect night at the plate for Italian Club as he banged out four singles in as many trips to the plate and scored four of his team's runs.

While his teammates were having a good night at the plate, Italian Club pitcher, Mike Paster held Bliss hitters to only three safeties. Bob Morrison collected the only extra-base hit, a double. Bruce Riley suffered the loss.

Italian club bombarded its opponent with four runs in the first inning, two in the second, two in the sixth and three more in the seventh. Bliss scored both its runs in the first.

Bevo Francis provided the power at the plate for Lisbon Hotel as he connected for a triple and a home run in two trips to the plate while Bob Mories smacked a four-bagger for the Democrats in the fourth with one aboard to account for their only runs.

The winners pushed across two runs in the second inning and then added lone tallies in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth as they won their second contest in three appearances.

No league games are scheduled for tonight, however, the Salem Merchants will battle Warren Laurel Lanes at 7:30 p.m. and two girls teams the Wooster Lumber Co. and the Hubbard Girls — will play at 9 p.m.

Palmer Calls Oakmont Club 'A Monster'

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—"She's a monster," Arnold Palmer said after coming to friendly grips with his next major golf antagonist—the Oakmont Country Club.

This piece of real estate nestling in the western Pennsylvania hills is the site of the 62nd National Open championship June 14-16. Palmer drove the 42 miles from his home in Latrobe, Pa., to play the course for the first time in four years.

"She's going to be awfully tough," golf's leading money winner and prime tournament favorite said after a scrambling 18 Wednesday. "I'm having to revise my estimates. Originally, I said 275 would win the open here. Now I believe it'll be nearer 280."

Palmer toured the 6,916-yard, par 71 layout with his professional father, Milfred (Pap) Palmer and two Latrobe neighbors, Harry Saxman and Ken Bowman.

"I didn't keep a score but I must have shot an 80," he said afterward. "I'll play it again later this week more seriously. I should get a better idea then."

Roger Maris had the honor of hitting the first home run into the upper stands of the new Washington, D.C., Stadium.

Liston-Patterson Battle Set

Chicago To Host Heavyweight Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've been wondering, or even worrying, where the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight will be held, you can relax now. Ninety-nine per cent sure says Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., appointed promoters by the champion himself, Floyd Patterson.

"Unless something comes up, Chicago is the place," said Patterson at a press conference on Wednesday evening. Patterson has the right to be skeptical since the night before he thought it was all set for Detroit.

"But at the last minute I discovered that the people in Detroit were figuring on having local promoters to help stage the fight."

"I immediately said that was impossible because Championship Sports Inc., will be the sole promoters," said Patterson.

The only hitch that has to be overcome in Chicago, according to both Patterson and Bolan, is to get a reasonable rental for either Soldier Field or Comiskey Park.

"If they should ask us for a rental of $200,000 or $300,000 for either of those fields then it's something else again," said the champion.

Mel Says Indians Charging Through First Place Door

CHICAGO (AP)—"We're just a bunch of opportunists and I like it," says Mel McGaha, manager of the hot Cleveland Indians.

The Indians are clicking, McGaha says, because: "We're just taking advantage of any opportunity—when the door is open, we charge through."

The Indians, taking over second place on the heels of New York, edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4 Wednesday night on consecutive lead-off, ninth-inning homers by pinch-hitter Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian. Their 4th and 11th blasts, respectively, of the season boosted Dick Donovan to his eighth victory without a loss.

"We've had five or six of those kinds of last innings," said McGaha. "This was the third one within a week."

Edwin H. Ohl

LEETONIA — Edwin H. Ohl, 66, formerly of Leetonia, died of complications Tuesday in Veterans Hospital at Albany, N.Y., where he had been a patient for several years.

Born in Leetonia in May, 1896, he was the son of the late Charles O. Ohl and Mrs. Margaret Schaffner of Youngstown.

A World War I veteran and a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, he had been a painter by trade.

He is survived by his mother. Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Woods Funeral Home with Rev. T. P. Laughner officiating. Burial will be in the Washingtonville Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday evening.

Mrs. Hanna Funeral

NEW WATERFORD Services for Mrs. Bertha Hanna, 85, of Boardman St. who died Wednesday in Cupola Nursing Home in Leetonia, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Van Dyke Funeral Home, with Rev. Chalmers Goshorn, pastor of Trinity United Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Burial will be in New Waterford Cemetery and friends may call at the Van Dyke Funeral Home tonight from 7 to 9.

Born in Armagh, Pa., Feb. 28, 1877, she was the daughter of John and Jenny Duncan Hartman. She married Richard Hanna in 1899. He died in 1960.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frances Ferris of New Waterford, and Mrs. Betty Cope of East Palestine; four sons, Charles of Columbiana; Paul of East Palestine; Earl of Garnersville, N.Y., and Floyd Hanna of Mill Creek, Ind.; 18 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Stove, Storage Shed Fires Are Answered

Firemen were called out twice Wednesday to extinguish fires that damaged an electric stove and a small storage shed.

The stove that caught fire was at the Clifford Whinnery residence on the Newgarden Rd. at 11:19 p.m. Damage was confined to the stove.

About half of an old storage shed, owned by Mrs. William Kring, 269 N. Howard Ave., was destroyed by fire shortly after 4 p.m. Cause of the fire was not determined. Fire Chief Elmer Bush reported. No damage estimate was made.

TIRES, WHEEL STOLEN

Tom Ferris of 1241 E. State St. reported to police today that two snow tires, a spare tire and wheel and a bumper jack were stolen from the trunk of his car recently. The exact time and place of the theft is not known. Total value of the stolen property was estimated at $125.

Estes

Pratt's car which said in part "the burden of guilt is on my shoulders."

Investigators said they doubted Pratt had any connection with Estes.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., plans to start hearings Monday on the Estes case, with political controversy already swirling about its ears.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, accused the subcommittee's staff of leaking to the press what he called politically inspired "petty hinting and subtle innuendo" about two brothers of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Prompted By News Story
His statements were prompted by a New York Herald Tribune story published Wednesday which quoted an expert on the House subcommittee's staff in connection with reports that the names of Edgar Eisenhower and the late Arthur Eisenhower might figure in the hearings on matters completely unrelated to Estes.

In Tacoma, Wash., Edgar Eisenhower, a lawyer, declared "the whole purpose of this is to take the heat off this administration, to take the heat off this Billie Sol Estes investigation. They are trying to shift attention."

"I don't know anything about the Estes problem except what I have read in the papers. If they are trying to connect me with that situation, it is a great distortion. I never heard of the man until I saw his name in the paper."

The former president's brother, said Fountain invited him to come to Washington a long time ago.

"I told him on the telephone I wouldn't go," Eisenhower said. "Didn't have any interest in any grain storage and didn't see why I should pay my way back there to tell him so. I told him I didn't have at any time, and haven't now, a nickel's worth of interest in wheat storage or grain storage."

The House group, the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, has jurisdiction over surplus grain storage and cotton allotments. It will look into Estes' profitable operations under both programs.

The House subcommittee's counsel James R. Naughton said no decision has been reached on whether it will investigate the Eisenhowers.

Estes is awaiting trial on federal fraud charges and a Texas indictment accusing him of theft. Another chapter of his from boom to bust story unfolded Wednesday in El Paso, Tex. The financier faced his creditors but would reveal nothing.

Pleading the Fifth Amendment's provisions against possible self-incrimination, Estes declined to answer when asked about his business interests and assets. He also declined to give his occupation or the location of his offices.

But he told District Judge R. E. Thomson at the federal receiver's hearing he would file a detailed statement of his worth and operations by June 15.

Man Pleads Guilty To Forgery Charge

Ryan Voogla, 23, of 1215 E. 3rd St., pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery when he was arraigned before Judge Luther Donbar at Northwest Columbiana County Court here Wednesday. Bond was set at $1,000.

The complaint was filed by Pete's TV Service, 295 E. State St. Judge Donbar said he has been notified that other complaints of forgery against Voogla are forthcoming, including four from the Strouss-Hirschberg Store and one from a mail order firm in Denver, Colo.

The judge said it was brought out at the arraignment Wednesday that Voogla has been forging his uncle's name to checks to buy television sets which were later sold to discount firms in Youngstown.

Voogla lives with his uncle, Evald Toila, at the E. 3rd St. address.

No date has been set for a preliminary hearing in County Court.

scribed in a copyright story in the News—came five days and a few hours after the murders, and on Rosenberg's 25th birthday.

Police revealed last Monday that they knew the identities of the three bandits and that a nationwide search was under way.

Later that day, the alleged triggerman accused of staging the $4,000 holdup of a tobacco company with Rosenberg, was caught in a motel in a Chicago suburb.

The next day, the man accused of driving a car which was to have been used in a getaway surrendered in Norwich, Conn.

The Daily News said Rosenberg, "desperate on the fifth day after the murders," contacted his father, Louis, 56.

When the father turned to the News for advice, he was told: "Have him turn himself in. It's the only way."

The News informed police that the contact had been made, and that Rosenberg wanted to talk with representatives of the paper and state his case before facing police.

Such a discussion was authorized by police, the News said, and it quoted father and son as claiming young Rosenberg was innocent.

The other two men accused of the slayings have claimed innocence.

The pair, arraigned on homicide charges and held without bail Wednesday are Anthony (Baldy) Portelli, 28, accused of firing the shots that killed the two detectives, and Anthony Dellernia, 34, identified by police as the driver of the getaway car who panicked and left the robbers in the lurch when he heard gunfire in the tobacco company plant.

Slain detective John P. Finnegan, 29, was buried Wednesday after a funeral mass at a Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn. There was a turnout of about 1,500 off-duty detectives, along with a 90-man police honor guard and 125 uniformed men—a tribute similar to that given the day before to Finnegan's partner, Luke J. Fallon, 56.

St. 'E' Hospital Gets State Okay For Heart Patients

St. Elizabeth Hospital, Youngstown, has been approved by the Ohio State Department of Public Welfare for treatment of patients who require diagnosis and surgery for the treatment of heart diseases.

Word of the approval was received in a letter directed to Sister M. Baptista, hospital administrator, from Robert E. Batterson M.D., medical director of the State Crippled Children's Service.

Only 15 hospitals in Ohio are included in the open heart program of the State Department of Public Welfare, and of this number, only 10 are approved for both cardiac catheterization and open heart surgery. St. Elizabeth Hospital joins the latter group, having received double approval.

Approval means that children receiving care at the St. Elizabeth Hospital Cardiovascular Department are eligible for financial assistance from the state of Ohio. Special treatment such as open heart surgery has often been a heavy burden on the family of the afflicted child. This approval means that the state can now help out in these cases.

State approval comes after several months of work on the part of the hospital administration and the Cardiovascular Department.

The department was established in September of 1961. The following January, formal application was made for state approval. After this was done, a special medical inspector was scheduled for a visit to the facilities. This inspector was James A. Helmsworth M.D., of the Department of Surgery, Cincinnati General Hospital, University of Cincinnati College of Medicine.

Flight

Carpenter reported the automatic control system in his capsule was performing well and that all systems were great.

Ground haze obscured Cape Canaveral before the launch but it did not interfere greatly with the big adventure.

With Carpenter most of the morning after he awakened at 1:15 a.m. was Glenn, the man who proceeded him into orbit.

After a shave and shower, Carpenter had breakfast at 1:45. The hearty meal included filet mignon, a soft egg, buttered toast, jelly, coffee and orange juice. Among his breakfast companions were Glenn, and two Project Mercury specialists, Dr. Howard Minners and Dr. William Douglas.

Medical checks began at 2 a.m. Minners described Carpenter as in excellent physical condition.

Shortly after 3 a.m., the astronaut donned his silver space suit, and at 3:42 left Hangar S in a special van for a four-mile ride to Launch Complex 14 where the great Atlas rocket was set.

At 4:38, he took the elevator to the top of the gantry and at 4:41 he entered the cramped capsule. The aim of Carpenter's flight was to broaden man's knowledge of space travel; the eventual goal: manned flight to the moon and beyond.

Aboard Aurora 7 were 3000 calories of food, including cubes of solid substances similar to apple pie and candy.

Carpenter talked with his wife by phone Wednesday from his special quarters in Hangar S at Cape Canaveral. He spent a relaxing day, reviewing flight plans with technicians and engineers, with Glenn, and the backup pilot, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra.

A NASA spokesman was asked if Carpenter had any fear of death as his date with the stars neared. The spokesman replied that Carpenter is "conscious of the hazards involved and he doesn't think the risk factor is any lower because it's the second time around."

The course of Aurora 7 was carefully calculated so it would pass over the 17-station Mercury tracking network around the globe.

Strung out across the Atlantic in the main recovery areas were 20 Navy ships. Also on the alert were 70 aircraft, ready to speed to the astronaut's assistance. Small contingency forces and the regular worldwide rescue forces were prepared should the capsule come down outside planned areas.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN
Cheer For Ulcer Patients

Some medical eyebrows may be raised and some shrieks of protest from die-hard nutritionists may be heard as a result of an ulcer report recently published by the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Assn.

The views—which correspond with my own, gained through years of experience—will free many peptic ulcer (stomach and duodenal) sufferers from unnecessary hardships of rigid diet.

The report, in summary, says: Ulcers are not healed by diet, injections, nor by medications alone, but because the man with the ulcer comes under the care of a physician who is able to transmit to the patient some of his own confidence in the tendency of the ulcer to heal.

RIGID DIETARY treatment does not hasten peptic ulcer healing. Satisfactory healing of an ulcer can be obtained on a liberalized diet in which the choice of foods is more or less left to the patient provided that the chosen foods are made readily available, are attractively served and are eaten under favorable and pleasant conditions.

Dietary restrictions need not be placed on certain foods thought to be irritating unless they cause immediate distress to the particular patient.

The rate of recurrence of peptic ulcer is determined by its natural history in the particular patient. Even under virtually ideal conditions of management (as in the personnel of the Royal navy), the natural rate of recurrence is little influenced.

The intelligent patient will obviously avoid those foods he knows from experience cause him to have heartburn, pain or other digestive symptoms. He will avoid alcohol and coffee. He will thoroughly chew all foods. And he will take some simple antacid tablets or powders that experience has shown him serve to prevent or relieve distress.

EVEN SO-CALLED indigestibles (onions, garlic, turnips, parsnips, radishes, mustard, pickles, etc.) do not produce any more irritation to the stomach than to those whose stomachs are normal.

Provided that "roughage" foods (fruit skins, lettuce, cabbage, kale, nuts, celery, etc.) are thoroughly masticated, they scarcely ever injure a peptic ulcer.

Certainly, before prescribing limitations to the diets of persons with peptic ulcer, we need better evidence than ordinary

NEW YORK (AP)—A man acclaimed for doing a good job above the earth today was honored for doing a good job on it. Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was named the nation's "Father of the Year."

Although Glenn, as the first American to orbit this planet, has been as far away from his family as any man ever has been, he was rated tops as a family man by the National Father's Day Committee.

He and his wife, Anna Margaret, have two children, John David, 14, and Carolyn Ann, 13.

Brave Robin

Wing Pierced Bird Proves Good Mate But Elusive

NEW GARDEN — A cock robin, a kind of walking, unfinished shishkabob, has successfully sired a flock of four fledglings here despite a wooden shaft piercing his body.

A foot-long shaft, presumably part of an arrow, protrudes from the fleshy part of his wing, but he still persists in his filial chores, helping Mom robin feed the kids each day in the sugar maple in John Ward's front yard. And despite the hindrance, he can forage for worms with the best of the winged hunters that make the Ward lawn a morning mecca.

The robin, although he lists slightly in flight, walks fairly normally and appears to ignore the non-robin part of him.

Ward, a humane man, has tried to catch the robin to relieve him of his stick. But the robin will have none of it and frustrates every attempt to capture him. After an unsuccessful attempt to liquor up the robin with a leery bait, Ward was planning to drop a miniature net over the bird as he lit on the home nest.

But if anyone is placing any bets on who wins this trapping contest, Ward's betting on the bobbin' robin. Even the Salem News photographer couldn't "catch" him on film.

Strange Garden

By JOY STILLLEY

For Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—My garden doesn't grow with silver bells and cockle shells, but the things it does grow with are just as strange.

My garden isn't even outside. It's on window sills, tables, bookcases, shelves and counter tops and there's even an apartment-sized tree growing out of a big pot on the living room floor.

As a matter of fact, it isn't my garden at all. It belongs to my husband. He tenderly places the seeds and bulbs in the dirt. I only water the plants, dust them, ply them with the latest scientific food, move them from window to window to get the sunshine and pick up the dead leaves that clutter the floor.

The horticultural expert in our family is a great believer in trying to grow anything different and unusual. No petunias or zinnias for him.

Every year he studies the seed catalogs with more enthusiasm than wisdom, and would send off for everything in them if there were just a few more window sills around.

The last time he ordered he picked out the most exotic item offered—birds of paradise seeds, which were described in glowing terms that would put a sunset to shame.

These arrived in due time, but though they were very interesting—having little tufts of what looked like orange feathers all around them—he couldn't decide which end was up. Just to be on the safe side, he planted half of them one way and half the other.

The directions did mention that it would take constant watering and three months for them to germinate, so we marked the expected date of the coming blessed event on the calendar and sat back to water and to wait.

Sure enough, just about three months from the time they hit pay dirt, we did too. One little green shoot came poking its way out of the soil.

This was a time of great excitement for my gardener. No hello kiss for me when he came home until after he'd checked the progress of the little plant. It wasn't until about a week later that we recognized it as a marigold plant that had sprouted from a seed left in the dirt he used. We are still waiting for the birds of paradise to fly up.

The seeds of any fruit or vegetable that find their way into our refrigerator later find their way into one of my husband's clay pots.

Unfortunately, he just drops them in at random and when a shoot appears we never know whether it's going to grow into an apple tree or a watermelon.

About Meetings

Dairymen's Group Elects

Directors of the Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association held their annual organization meeting recently, with all major officers re-elected.

S. B. Wells of New England, W. Va., was chosen president and chairman of the board; C. A. president; J. M. Hauger, Berlin, Pa., treasurer; George A. Taylor, Bethel Park, Pa., manager; M. M. McCreery, Pittsburgh, assistant treasurer; Homer H. Martz, Monroeville, Pa., secretary.

The Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association is the major milk marketing cooperative in the tri-state area.

The 6,000 farmers who are members supply most of the fluid milk for consumers in the following markets: Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania; Youngstown - Warren; Wheeling, W. Va.-Steubenville; Clarksburg - Morgantown, W. Va.; Charleston-Beckley, W. Va.

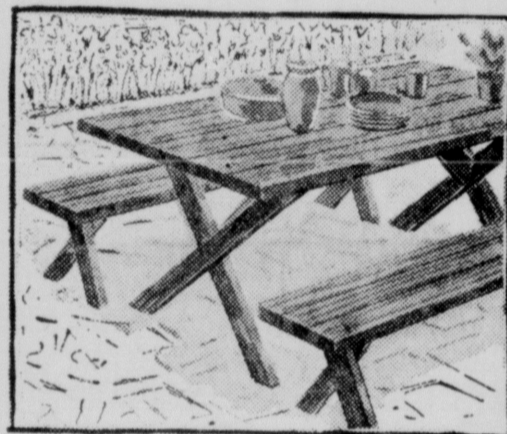

Last year members produced and sold 972 million pounds of milk with a value to farmers amounting to almost $45 million.

The 10-man board of directors also includes Frank McKinney, Monongahela, Pa.; Paul M. Ingram, Sistersville, W. Va.; William Warrick, Barnesville, Ohio; N. E. Sampson, Volant, Pa.; Robert Wootter, Fowler, Ohio; Howard M. Smith, Mayport, Pa.; and Paul C. Bullard, Andover, Ohio.

OUTDOOR LIVING

Home Shunned When Weather Turns Warm

Outdoors Beckons All to Sun and Fun

Long before the last timid bird peeks out of the nest, the winter-weary population has launched its program for outdoor living.

There may be no place like home, but its four walls are certainly shunned with a vengeance the minute the weather turns warm.

It's the open road, the water, the tennis court, the golf links for most of us. And when we can't get away at all, we stick like glue to the patio.

Fun outdoors is a far cry from what it was years ago. Once, dad took out the old wooden boat and rowed the family at a stately pace down the stream.

Today, there's nearly as much traffic on the waterways as there is on the turnpikes—some of it skimming along at a neat 50 miles per hour.

The outdoor motor has replaced the oars to the point where there are approximately 6,100,000 in use in the U.S. alone. And boat trailers have made it simple for us to reach the waters of our choice.

Once, if you wanted to ski, you needed snow. Now water

'Tools' Needed For Cookouts

When Americans first adopted the barbecue as a favorite form of summer cookery, equipment resembled that found in the tepees of the original dwellers. Today, however, all is changed, and the real barbecue enthusiast is as particular about the "tools" for his culinary pursuits as the dedicated fisherman or golfer.

With the barbecue, dad usually comes into his own as the head of the cooking department and wants equipment worthy of his talents.

To get ready for your summer cookouts, make a list of the equipment you will need. Here is a list of items required for a well-equipped barbecue:

A good-size charcoal grill, a five-piece barbecue tool set, chef's apron, mitts and hat, grill cover, patio lights, a hamburger press, skewers, turners and a set of stackable patio tables.

At first glance, this may seem to involve a sizable budget. "Actually," says Violet Hackin, home adviser, "all of this equipment can be had for less than $40."

Since dad has the cooking under control, mother's job might be to lay in a supply of sauces, condiments and throw-away plates to be stored on the pantry shelf.

Transistor Radio Has Built-In Watch

A new transistor radio with built-in jeweled watch provides the traveler not only with a time-piece but entertainment as well.

Small enough to fit into a handbag or the pocket of a man's shirt, the miniature watch-radio has an alarm clock attachment that turns on the radio at a preset time.

Such a guardian of time should be particularly welcome to the absent-minded traveler.

One of the new watch-radios is ingeniously designed to fold up like a traveling clock.

SOFT KNEE PADS

If you like to garden, make a kneeling pad of foam rubber covered with plastic. Weeding and planting become fun.

THIS OUTBOARDER is racing against his own forecast of how long it will take to cover a certain course.

skiing is one of the nation's most popular sports. And the sight of a SCUBA diver with snorkel, fins, weight belt, safety preserver and speargun, no longer fills anyone's heart with fear of an invasion from outer space.

Home swimming pools have replaced the old swimming hole, and some public beaches offer all the facilities needed to make a day's outing complete—excellent restaurants for family dining and summer theater for the evening hours.

Camping, today, isn't the rugged "for men only" kind of vacation it used to be.

No more is it necessary to drive out to the wilds, pitch a tent and live on canned beans if the day's fishing doesn't pan out as expected.

Camping trailers can be rented for as little as $35 to $45 a week, and they have ample sleeping room for the family, plus a built-in sink, a 10-gallon water supply and an ice box that holds 35 pounds of food.

Appliances that make outdoor

Mom and the kids won't want to be left out of the camping trip, anyway. They're anglers now! The easy-to-operate spin fishing fans out of the ladies and the offspring.

As a result of the increased family interest in camping, our National Forests are being visited by more campers than ever before. There are 5,641 camp and picnic areas, containing over 53,000 individual family camp and picnic units, where one can stay a day, a week or longer.

And even the unadventurous, only a few steps outside the front door, will find patio living more attractive this year.

Appliances that make outdoor cooking, patio lighting and TV viewing more comfortable and simpler to manage than ever before are cropping up by the score. And milady who just "adores" Early American furniture will find its prototype in new outdoor chairs and tables—even to the rocker.

Yep! The great outdoors offers a lot more enjoyment than it used to—and offers it in style. And parts and parcel of every outdoor scene will be the shutter-bug, with his new lightweight camera, preserving summer fun in beautiful color photographs.

for the family to enjoy when winter finally forces them to remember once more that "there's no place like home!"

Canned Meats Easy To 'Fix' and Add Variety To Hearty Meals Cooked Over a Campfire

Veteran campers plan their trips thoroughly; they've learned it pays. They know that haphazard selection of foods can ruin an otherwise well-planned trip. But there are two types who aren't so enlightened—the tenderfoot and the overly optimistic fisherman.

The tenderfoot plans mostly by guesswork and invariably will take along too many or too few provisions.

The optimistic fisherman neglects to take along some appetizing fare in case the fish don't bite. A good fish story may go a long way back home, but it doesn't help the disgruntled hungry camper at meal time.

To help waiting fishermen and active campers be assured of stick-to-the-rib meals, Marie Gifford, veteran camper and home economist, offers this advice:

Plan all your menus before you buy supplies so that you'll have the quantity and variety of foods you'll need. Don't forget the staples, such as sugar and salt.

Consider available cooking facilities. If there won't be an oven, include crackers and ready-baked cakes.

Do not buy more perishable foods than you know you can safely store.

Include a variety of high protein canned meats which give the energy and appetite satisfaction needed by active campers.

There are more than 20 different kinds of cooked canned meats to give the camper a variety of menus. They include beef stew, corned beef hash, chili, corned beef, dried beef and chopped ham. Canned meats stand up under rough handling, and here's no tedious fixing or mixing.

Menus should be planned according to the kind of camping. For the one-day trip with station wagon, they can be more elaborate than the fare for the pack sack crowd. A meal featuring corned beef hash and including tossed green salad can be arranged.

For those out-of-the-way campers who have taken the canoe upstream, eggs, creamed dried beef or chili may be accompanied by quick-cooking dried fruits, relishes, and potatoes baked in the hot ashes of the camp fire.

As a final hint, there's something worse than being caught downstream without a paddle. It's being in camp without a can opener.

DON'T LISTEN to Pop! Plan your camping trip carefully. Bring along canned meats and other staples so that the family won't starve if the fish don't bite. And don't forget to bring along the can opener!

Piping Warmth To Glasshouse Extends Its Use

Glasshouses usually are used as greenhouses, in which flowers grow under controlled temperatures. However, when a glasshouse is attached to a home, it can be used as an additional room or a solarium.

When the glasshouse is detached from the home and placed over a swimming pool, the pool can be used all year round. However, no matter what you use the glasshouse for, you must consider heating it.

There are several ways to do this. It can be heated by extending your present home heating system, or by installing a separate system.

Extending your home heating system to include the glasshouse is usually an easier job if you have hydronic heating. If your hydronic system has sufficient capacity to heat an additional area, then tie-in to the existing system by tapping the piping or the boiler with the new piping that extends to the glasshouse. If the glasshouse is not attached to the home, insulated hydronic piping buried in the ground will transport hot water from your boilers to "fintube" heat distributors in the glasshouse. A separate thermostat in the glasshouse can individually control heating requirements.

However, before you heat heating contractor. He will help you make the right decision.

Duel of Nature: Cunning Of Man Versus Wily Fish

A carefree vacation to the sunny states along the coastline or inland to the tree-shaped woodlands requires family planning, not only for transportation and accommodation but also for vacation activity after you arrive.

For young and old alike, America's vacation lands offer some of the world's finest fishing. All you need to try the sport of presidents is rod, reel, line and some lures.

"Children take naturally to fishing, and today's simplified tackle and shiny feathered lures will make even the girls love it the first time out," says Dick Wloff, angling authority and vice-president of a well-known fishing tackle manufacturer.

Here are his tips on what equipment to buy and why: Families bound for the seashore will find daily fun with a lightweight versatile salt water spinning outfit. For a variety of fishing from surf casting to bottom fishing from a jetty, your reel should have a spool capacity of 200 to 300 yards of 15 to 20-pound test monofilament line.

Local tackle stores will provide tips on the best lures or bait to buy for local fishing. With the reel, you'll need a two-piece, seven-foot hollow fiber glass boat and jetty rod. A good salt water outfit will cost between $30 and $50.

For inland vacationers,

America's lakes and streams provide fun fishing for bass, trout, pickerel and pike. Pan fish abound even in the most unlikely waters, and one on the line is a big day in a child's life.

You can have fun and still be a one-rod-and-reel family by purchasing equipment that offers the widest possible ability to handle different lines and lures. Shop for a lightweight spinning reel or spincasting reel, such as a Mitchell 300 or Abu-matic 140 or 160. The spinning reel should be made to use two spools of different line capacity. On one you can keep eight-pound test line for big lakes and big fish, and on the other, lighter four-pound line for trout and pan fishing. A 6½-foot medium light action rod and some spinning lures will complete the vacation outfit. A fresh water outfit, including rod, reel, line, and a couple of lures costs between $20 and $45 and is a lifetime investment in big fish, and on the other, lighter sports vacation fun.

A DAY ON the green is fun with battery-operated caddy cart that travels 18 holes without a re-charge.

Build Screen Around Patio For Privacy While Relaxing

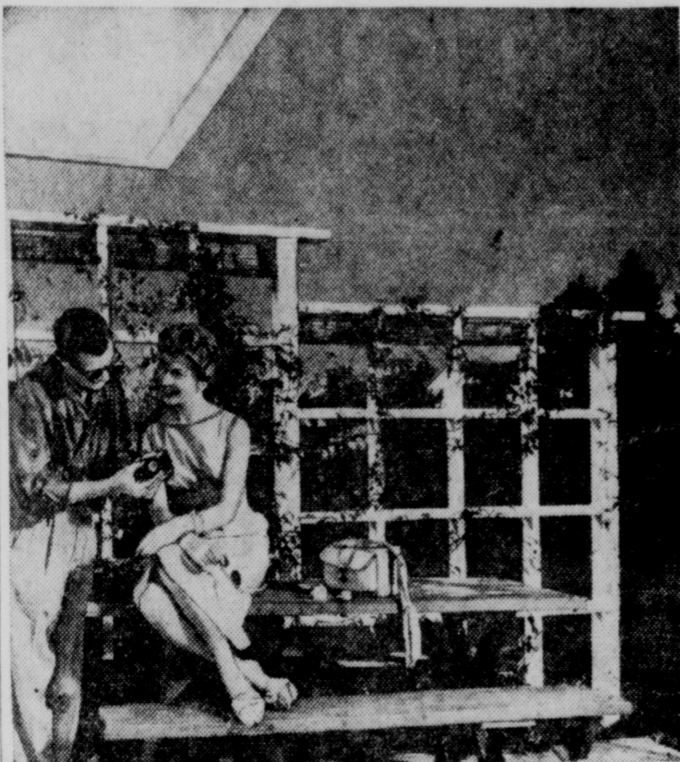

Your patio will be a lot more comfortable and usable this summer if you build a screen around it. The right kind of screen will add to the attractiveness of your entire home.

Besides gaining privacy, you'll also keep strong winds out—particularly helpful if the family likes to dine outdoors. Best of all, a patio screen is one of those simple, low-cost, do-it-yourself projects any amateur carpenter probably can complete in a weekend.

The only required tools you may not have are an auger or post hole digger, for digging holes where posts are set, and a carpenter's level, but these can be borrowed or rented. The rest of the job can be completed with saw and hammer.

The number of patio screen designs is virtually limitless. Probably the simplest one consists of posts connected by parallel horizontal boards (rails). Openings can be left between these boards to provide an alternating pattern of wood and open space, or the rails can be laid up against each other if you want the patio completely hidden.

Another basic design fills the space between posts with vertical, instead of horizontal, members. The verticals, usually referred to as pickets, are attached to the two horizontal and bottom.

THIS AIRY, LATTICEWORK wood divider puts a finishing touch to the patio and keeps it from looking like a concrete square accidentally set in the middle of the lawn. It separates the patio and yard, yet ties them together.

Cutting the stringers from the same lumber as the posts, then placing alternate pickets on opposite sides of the screen, gives you a novel three-dimensional design that provides privacy and modifies the force of the wind.

The infinite variations available through the use of wood species and sizes normally stocked by local retail lumber dealers makes it possible for you to design a screen suited to your own neighborhood or patio site.

Simple sketches will provide an advance look. After you've designed your patio screen on paper, measure off the exact dimensions of length and height you'll require to complete your design on your own property.

These dimensions, together with your sketch, will enable the lumber dealer to advise you on the exact quantity and sizes of lumber you'll need.

For detailed information about the various kinds of wood and advice on how to use them ingood taste, check with the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, 1619 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Gas-Fired Grill Comes to Patio

"Most outdoor parties are endurance contests for guests as well as the host and hostess." That observation comes from Margaret Spader, home service consultant for the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. She says that one of the best ways to evaluate the "managerial ability" of homemaker is to watch how she manages the family's transition to outdoor living.

The first thing to remember when the weather turns warm is to keep trips indoors to a minimum. This means providing storage space outside for items such as furniture, cooking equipment, serving needs, etc.

Many homemakers look forward to outdoor cooking, for it saves traffic and cleaning indoors. One good investment for the outdoor cook is a gasfired grill, for it provides heat immediately and the flame can be positively controlled.

The grills can be installed in masonry, or you can get them in portable carts that can be moved indoors for use in winter. Accessories such as spits, rotisseries, griddles, automatic ignition and ventilating hood are available, too.

You can cook in black bottom foil pans that conduct the heat efficiently. These disposable utensils have encouraged many an outdoor cook to increase her selection of foods prepared outdoors. It's a good idea to buy a small package of different types of these and decide which best serves your needs.

MOW IN SAFETY

Never mow wet or slippery grass with a power mower. Wait till the grass dries and before you mow remove sticks and rocks from your path. This way you will eliminate accidents.

A STACK OF BEDS

Make a stack of foam rubber bed pads for your summer cottage to accommodate weekend guests. Cover them in harmonizing colors and stack them on top of each other for a divan during the day.

Trend In Patio Furniture Is Mixture of Old and New

Outdoor furniture is going to one of the major summer furniture collections. The award-winning Early American group includes a rocker in a splash of color that will charm the eye on any patio. The rocker is of all-welded steel construction, with rockers of Philippine mahogany.

For outdoor entertaining on a more lavish scale, patio party-throwers this year have a selection of Early American dining tables. For example, there's one that will seat up to eight persons comfortably. There are smaller round and square tables, too, ideal for outdoor card parties.

Introduction of Early American styling to casual furniture now makes it possible to enjoy the warmth and beauty of colonial design in every season of the year.

The chairs are practical, too. An all-steel mesh seat prevents water from collecting when the cushions are removed. A baked enamel finish provides all-weather durability.

For the first time, a New England rocker has been added

Teriyaki Steak Is Budget Saver

Barbecued teriyaki steak is a real budget-saver. By adding meat tenderizer and cutting thin slices, Japanese style, less expensive chuck steaks can be used.

Home economists of the R. T. French Co. suggest that while grilling, you brush the meat often with barbecue sauce for a zesty flavor and delightful color. Then serve it with rice and a salad of small strips of carrot, celery, green pepper, green onions and cauliflowerettes.

To serve four, you'll need 3 pounds chuck steak, two inches thick, 1½ teaspoons meat tenderizer and ½ cup barbecue sauce.

The capital of Outer Mongolia is Ulan Bator. The country's area is 600,000 square miles.

Predict Weather By Reading Skies

It isn't hard to predict weather when you're on a driving trip, if you know what signs to look for. Clouds, sky colors and wind directions are your clues. Here's how to interpret them:

Morning or evening skies of dull red color mean rain within 24 hours. So does glaring white sunlight behind dark cloud masses.

Fair weather follows a dawn when morning frost or ground dew are seen. Fluffy white clouds scattered over a light blue sky foretell no rain for at least a day.

If south to southwest winds send fleecy clouds scurrying—rain within one and one-half days. North to northeast winds—but you can bet it won't rain for at least two days.

Strong winds are on the way if the sky is marked with bright yellow streaks. Pale yellow often predicts rain in less than a day. Rosy skies bring good weather. So wait for them, take off, and have a good trip!

Choice: 186 Million Acres of Campsites

VACATIONISTS MAKE nearly a half million visits each year to the Nantahala National Forest in North Carolina (left) to camp, picnic and swim. The Nantahala's hundreds of thousands of acres of wooded mountainlands are famous for their scenic splendor. It's worth traveling, too, to enjoy the beauty of the Marble Mountain Wilderness Area on the Klamath National Forest, California (right) where the mysterious Weeping Spruce tree grows.

Looking for a place to set up camp this summer? Well, you have nearly 186 million acres of National Forests and Grasslands to choose from.

You can select a high mountain pass, the banks of a shady stream, or even a desert on which to pitch your tent. You can picnic with other outdoor chefs beside a lake, swim, explore trails and see wildlife everywhere. If you're tired of resort vacations and want to spend some time where you'll enjoy privacy and freedom, you'll find that units are generously spaced, usually 100 feet or more apart, with shrubs and trees between a screen.

Prospective campers would be wise to check on facilities, reservations and charges at the campsites and the restrictions imposed. You can get detailed information from the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

Campgrounds and picnic grounds differ. A family picnic unit has only table, benches and fireplace. Parking is at a central spot. Camping units have the table, benches and fireplace, plus a tent site and individual parking spur.

Some campsites will accommodate small camp trailers, but water, electricity and sewage connections are not provided. Many forests offer separate trailer accommodations.

Wood is available at most camp and picnic grounds. At some areas you can obtain it from a community pile. At others you must gather your own. However, it's best to take along a camp stove.

You don't usually need a permit to build a fire at a developed campground, except in California, but it's best to check at the nearest Forest Service office to be sure.

If you leave the beaten path of a developed recreation area for your campsite remember to boil water that you take from lakes or streams. There will be no garbage receptacles, so carefully burn your refuse. Before you build your campfire, scrape away leaves down to the mineral soil. Put a ring of rocks within the cleared area. Build the fire within it.

Finally, be sure you're not trespassing.

Outdoor Fires Are Fun, But Play It Safe

To enjoy a cookout, the aromas not only must be tantalizing and the food good, but the scene must be safe as well.

Many hazards accompany outdoor picnic and camp cooking—dangerous fire hazards—and unless strict safety rules are observed, your summer may be spoiled by an unhappy experience with fire.

All camp fires should be built small and safe. If rocks are available, a small fire built between three or four fairly flat stones will suffice. The pots are set between the stones or directly on the fire where the heat is most intense.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs advises that you select a spot with good solid earth for your fire. Don't build on spongy, porous earth or peaty soil, and keep the fire away from tree trunks, fallen trees and overhanging branches.

Scrape the ground so you have bare soil five or six feet from the fire in every direction. These precautions are essential because nearly 300 forest fires a day last year reduced 4,560,000 acres to smoldering ruin.

Some general fire safety commandments which have your health and safety in mind are as follows:

Make sure matches are out before throwing them away.

Never leave a fire unattended.

Keep a bucket of water handy.

Stack firewood or other fuel 10 or more feet from fire.

Keep your fires confined to properly built fireplaces.

When leaving, put fire completely out. Sprinkle it with water, rake sticks and coals, sprinkle again. If water is not available, scrape out embers, spread sticks and coals and cover with dirt.

Be careful while cooking and avoid splattering grease and flying sparks.

Do not allow children to play near the fire or cook over the exposed flames. Encourage them to play as far from the fire as possible.

Color Rinse Is Hair Guardian

By September, as a result of a good deal of fun in the outdoors, your topknot may most resemble straw or fly-away thistledown. Why not start now to protect it?

A temporary color rinse, which will not radically change but only accent your own natural hair beauty, is good for this purpose.

The following run-down of beauty tricks that temporary color can perform for you as you wash it through your hair, is offered by a beauty institute:

1. Match your temporary color hair rinse shades with your own natural hair color. A soothing color coat can give hair already parched a healthier gloss.

2. Let a temporary color hair rinse blend in regrowth root hair until your next coloring session.

3. Do color and permanent waves go together? Yes, if the color is a temporary color hair rinse. After the color has been completely removed with shampoo, the permanent wave solutions can be put to work as they should be—on clean hair.

4. Women with white hair often find that, in summer, they have an unbecoming yellow streak in their silvery pride and joy. A silver white temporary rinse will cancel out the yellow without depositing blue or violet tones.

5. A temporary color rinse can cover each strand of hair with a transparent coating to protect it and add body.

KEEP FAN CLEAN

For best efficiency, fan blades need to be clean. Remember to clean your fan with soap or detergent suds two or three times during the summer.

A HOME-MADE, small first-aid kit will relieve the pain of minor injuries acquired during travel or sports.

YOUNG SPORTS are attired for "raising cane" in smart textured silk. Elegantly tailored fully-lined jacket has matching or contrasting slacks or walking shorts and stripe shirt for contrast.

Trips Can Be Fun for Your Youngsters

Nobody has completely solved the problem of how to keep children from growing restless on long motoring trips, but a few tried-and-tested tips have been picked up over the years.

When children become restless on trips, it's not because they are "bad." Frequently, it's just that proper thought has not been given to their needs by the parents.

Before setting out, tell the children the area of your travels and let them discuss it with their friends and teachers. Most nation-wide gas and oil companies will be glad to map out a trip route for you. The route is prepared at a central office by experts, and it will indicate sites of historical significance and points of interest to note along the way. Once on the road, a game can be made out of letting the children find the places mapped.

Books, crayons and cards will help to keep young passengers occupied, and there are a number of "car games" that can be played.

Allow the children to get out of the car whenever you make a stop. And a picnic provides a wonderful opportunity for "letting off steam."

Family Cookouts Are Work For Mom but Fun for Dad

WHAT'S A BARBECUE? Pop's turn to show off in full view; Mom's turn to work in the background to make sure his efforts are a success; and Junior's turn to reap the delicious results of both jobs!

Dad may feel he's the king at family cookouts, but it's mom who makes the meals succeed. The reason is that meals on the patio really aren't as primitive as they look. The fresh air and greenery may give that "back-to-nature" feeling, but preparation of the meal calls for more skills and tools than the caveman had.

While studying the uses of cookout tools, the makers of kitchenware found that mom does the most work. Starting with the shopping, chances are that most chores fall to the woman of the house, while dad gets off with firing up the charcoal and turning the meat.

A barbecue sauce or marinade is usually mom's job. She uses her sauce pans, mixing bowls and spoons. Dad merely dabs the sauce on the meat outdoors.

Shishkabob preparation starts at the slicing board in the kitchen, where mom cubes the meat and tomatoes, and slices up mushrooms, green peppers and onions. Dad's function is to give the entire tasty assortment a few turns over the flame before it is served.

Tossed salads and potato salads call for fancy knife work. Dad's duty on salads is simply to help eat them.

Baked beans, scalloped potatoes and corn on the cob are the leading hot dishes that accompany the meat at cookouts. All are mom's job from start to finish, including the cooking in stainless steel ware that will stand the trip from kitchen to see the hot dish until it is served.

Desserts, often cakes or pies, are also an inside job for mom, using her bakeware and all the handy gadgets needed for coring fruit, straining flour and crimping crusts.

Even the beverage, lemonade or iced tea, is her job. Sometimes, pop slices the pie, though.

Mom's most important task at cookouts isn't really work, however. It's leading the family chorus in that familiar refrain: "Dad the steak was really delicious!"

Log Racing on Outboard Is Good Test of Seamanship

Predicted log racing is like the popular sports car rally, except that it's run on water. Any number of people can participate—as long as there are at least two for each team. There must be a driver and a timer-observer on each boat. A larger crew may be aboard as well.

Size of motor—whether it be a 3.6 hp kicker that trolls along at five or six miles an hour or a 75 hp motor that goes more than 50 mph—is not important.

In this type of racing, the boat races against his own forecast of how long it will take to cover a prescribed course. He starts at a given point and passes several check points attempting to match his predicted time schedule.

Scoring is based on accurately predicting the time for each leg on the course and total elapsed time for the race.

All the outboarder needs in the way of equipment is a compass to tell him where he's going and a speedometer.

Clocks are banned. Normally, each boat has a timer aboard with a stop watch or there is a timer ashore at each check point. The boater and his crew are strictly on their own.

Once they start their run, they can't change their prediction, even if adverse weather or water conditions set in. They have to compensate by seamanship and motor operation.

Predicted log racing is one of the newest forms of fun for outboard motor boat enthusiasts.

Any local group of boaters can adopt its own rules, providing the major requirements of compass, speedometer and method of timing are met.

Make Table Light For Outdoor Dining

Make a hurricane lamp table decoration for your outdoor dining and shed light on the table as well.

Glue a six-inch styrofoam circle on top of an eight-inch one to make a base. Hollow out center to fit bottom of hurricane lamp.

Fasten circle of flowers and leaves around the base, using pins dipped in glue to keep them firmly in place.

Around edge of base place six Kurly Kate pot cleaners and fasten them with small colored hat pins. Place ribbon bows between pot cleaners. Bows and flowers can be changed to match color of place mats or table cloths.

CHOCOLATE COVERED peppermints on graham crackers, topped with toasted marshmallows make a fine summer dessert. Fruit and iced tea with rock candy stirrers add a finishing touch to an "instant" patio supper.

Add To Outdoor Living Enjoyment

Family Swim Pools Easy To Install

Backyard swimming pools, no longer a luxury reserved for the wealthy, are adding to the outdoor living enjoyment of more Americans each year.

As the move to suburbia continues and leisure time grows, the backyard has become the focal point for family relaxation and entertainment—much enhanced by the addition of a swimming pool.

Prefabricated pools prove most popular with homeowners because of their ease of installation and maintenance. Usually constructed of fiberglass or vinyl-liners, these can be installed in a few days and virtually eliminate maintenance costs since they do not crack, peel, rot or corrode and need not be painted.

Most pools come complete with filter system, ladder, vacuum skimmer and two-foot walk, and with many accessories such as diving boards, trampolines, underwater lights floats, etc., available to all to poolside fun.

There is a pool size and shape to fit any backyard and most budgets. Ranging in size from 11x26 to 40x100, prefabricated pools come in rectangular, oval and free-form shapes. Depth is usually from three to seven feet.

Proper pool landscaping adds a great deal to the attractiveness of the backyard and some dealers offer pool purchasers complete landscaping advice as to proper trees, shrubs and flowers for attractiveness, easy care and pool privacy. Many homeowners also are finding that their backyard pool has added substantially to real estate values.

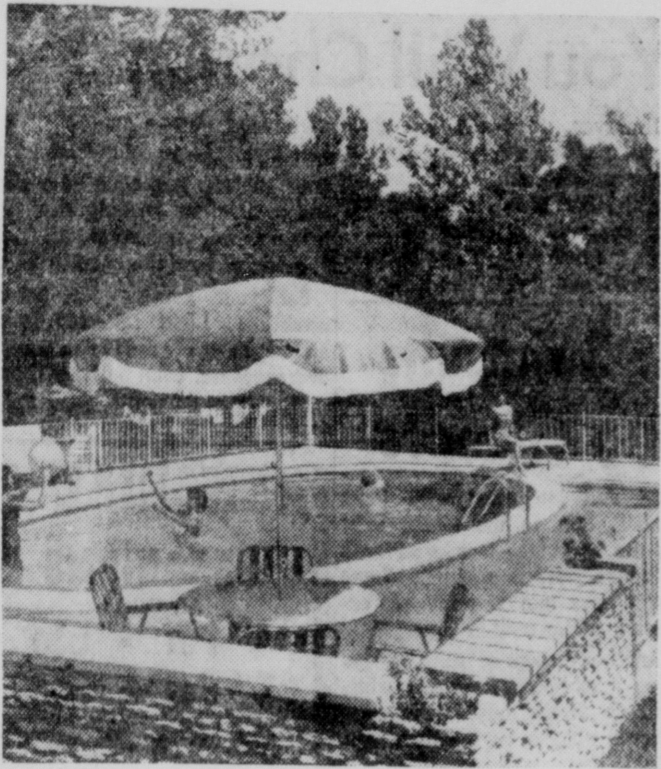

For the do-it-yourselfer, pool kits are available, fully equipped, all in one piece, and easily installed at great savings.

The backyard swimming pool provides year-round enjoyment even in northerly climes, where winter's arrival means backyard skating fun for the family on their own private rink.

SNAP STORM DAMAGE

If you claim your grounds are pretty as a picture, you had better take some pictures to prove it, that is, if you're asking income tax deductions for storm-damaged landscaping. The burden of the proof lies with the home owner.

Bizerte Lake is connected with the Mediterranean Sea by a mile and a half canal dredged by the French in 1894.

FOR FAMILY togetherness, health, relaxation and entertainment, the backyard swimming pool is proving the answer to Americans who want to make the most of their leisure time and outdoor living.

House Plants Will Flourish In Garden's Good Earth

During the heat of summer, a dip into cool water is inviting and invigorating. Your house plants, too, will flourish after a summer plunge, except that they prefer the cool earth of the garden to the old swimming hole.

After a winter indoors, they will profit from a summer outside in the good earth, gaining strength and nourishment. Best time to do it is well after all danger of frost is past, and the temperature is fairly constant.

Select a partly shaded spot in your garden so the plants will not be burned or scorched by the full heat of the sun. Dig a hole for each plant about three inches deeper than the pot from its bottom to the lip. A three-inch layer of clinkers or crushed stone should be placed in the hole below the pot to keep worms from entering through the hole in the bottom and to provide drainage.

Make certain that your plant is in a red clay pot before placing it in the hole. With its natural porosity, the red clay pot will allow for nutrients in the soil, water and air to pass

New Furnishing Schemes Make 2nd Home Delight

Now that the second house has joined the second car in the American scheme of things, it's time to revise our notion of how that house should be furnished. Most of us have employed the old grab bag technique. Anything not relegated to the attic or garage went to furnish the summer or weekend house.

Many people are still convinced that they save money with this furniture which almost always has to be refinished, rebuilt and resettled before it can be enjoyed.

But new and more practical furnishing schemes are in the wind to make that second home a delight for those who appreciate carefree but tasteful surroundings.

Styled in the contemporary Danish tradition with walnut-finished frames, sofas, chairs and benches all have zippered upholstery covers on their polyurethane cushions. This makes for easy cleaning and low-budget replacement.

Serenely comfortable lines take this furniture into the bedroom, living room or study with equal ease.

It's all climate-proof against mildew and cracking, and sand and salt water will not hurt its fabrics.

The idea comes from a national chain of foam specialty showrooms. The result, a weekend house completely furnished in appealing style that will cost little more than rebuilt attic remnants.

Vacation Clothing Now Goes In Style

Garment Bag: Boon to Travelers

No piece of luggage has ever caught the fancy of Americans as quickly as the traveling garment bag. Although primarily a case for automobile trips, it works equally well for trips by plane, bus or train.

It suits most of us perfectly because it can be packed easily with little or no folding, and it stows away in a minute. Not the least advantage is its portability (heavy reinforcements are not needed), boon for all in these frequently porter-less days.

Maximum results are achieved in packing the traveling garment bag when all of the corners are carefully filled and the contents arranged so that nothing can shift around.

Some drivers prefer to hang garments in the bag while it is suspended from a closet rod or door; others find it just as easy to pack with the bag on a flat surface, such as a bed.

Each garment should be smoothed out before the next one is picked making certain that hems and sleeves are adjusted properly. Each sleeve should hang naturally at the side of the garment to prevent creases in the shoulders. Jacket fronts should be overlapped rather than buttoned shut.

Sweaters, shoes and accessories are added after all garments are in place, using them to keep weight evenly distributed and the hangers from sliding about.

In the car, a traveling garment bag ought to ride unfolded whenever possible. Avoid

CLOTHES GO on hangers with a minimum of folding in this traveling garment bag, and the bag converts to a conventional-looking suitcase. The smart "needlepoint" fabric covering on bag and cases resists travel wear and tear hanging it up, however, as the seat when there are just two persons in the car.

To stow the most luggage in the least space, first put in the largest cases with flat sides down. Odd-shaped items such as golf clubs and parcels can be tucked in at the sides, followed by the garment bag on top.

Take the Work Out of Laundry

The picnic table and barbecue grill are set up in the backyard; dad's golf clubs are ready for action; the children are ready for anything. The carefree summer season is here again.

Carefree? For whom? What about meals, housework, laundry? It's true there are certain jobs that can't be ignored regardless of the temptation, but there are short cuts that will make the housework less demanding.

Take the laundry. Your most important time-saver is wash-and-wear clothing. Play clothes, slacks, sport shirts, dresses and even home furnishings are available in popular wash-and-wear fabrics. Many can be worn without ironing.

Follow these simple instructions for proper laundering. Wash frequently in short cycles—three to six minutes for light and moderately soiled articles, six to 10 minutes for heavily soiled articles.

Wash synthetic fabrics in cold or warm water; resin-finished cottons in warm or hot water. Always rinse in cold.

If your garment is machine-washable, you'll get best results by drying in a dryer with a medium or low heat.

Note: The one exception dried for top performance.)

You'll find the new starches packaged in aerosol containers another big help in keeping laundry time down.

It's Time To Rout Outdoors Crime

Hose and Suds Chase Dirt

It's a real trial to have to stay indoors during warm sunny weather, so why not take your housework out into the fresh air? Many chores can be done more efficiently outdoors than in—especially if you have hot water on tap.

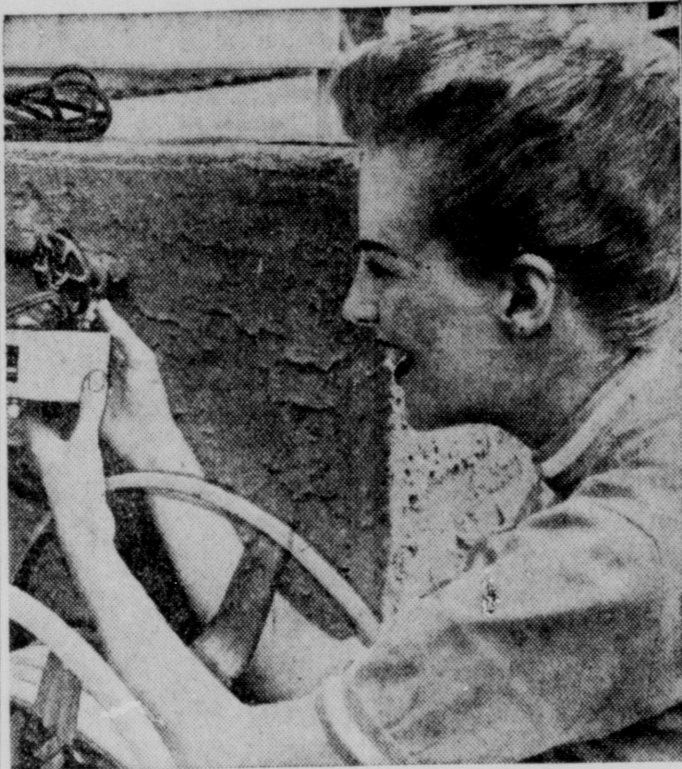

This is easy to arrange for any home which is wired for electricity and has an outside faucet. The only investment required is for a portable electric faucet water heater and a weatherproof cord long enough to reach the nearest electric outlet. Both would cost under $30.

This electrical gadget is small and detachable. Just plug it into an electric socket, attach the lightweight heating unit to any faucet, and almost instantly it will deliver hot water to a pail or through a garden hose.

Then you're all ready to work—and enjoy the fresh air, too. Almost anything portable can be taken out for a scrubbing, and let the suds fall where wought iron furniture, and patio or porch furniture are all ideal subjects for outdoor washing.

Another handy gadget is a large sponge with a hollow handle which screws directly onto a hose, so that water flows through it as you scrub. Simply dip the sponge into thick soap away, rinsing as you go.

Using this helpful tool, a big garden umbrella can be completely washed and rinsed in five minutes.

THANKS TO THE excellent electrical facilities in many rural homes, outdoor work can now be done with running hot water. Just attach a small portable electric water heater to an outdoor faucet, and you're ready to wash outdoors.

It's also easier to wash awnings, storm windows and doors, window screens and blinds out in the yard.

Another point worth mentioning: It's easier to recruit young helpers for outdoor housework. Somehow, tasks they might balk at indoors, suddenly become fun when they're allowed to wield the hose out on the grass in sunshine.

New Gadgets Keep Boat Shipshape

The man who owns a boat is more than not the one who maintains its appearance and operating performance. Any items that will help keep his boat gleaming and his motor smoothly purring are welcome news to him.

Boating aids, introduced a short time ago, included cellulose sponge products designed for specific marine cleaning jobs, marine oil additive to improve engine performance metal polish and cleaner, an aerosol spray which dries wet ignition systems, fuel additive to aid quick starting, canvas water repellent for protection of boat covers and tarpaulins, boat soap effective either in fresh or salt water, and bilge cleaner, which does its work through the rolling action of the boat.

All of these are proving invaluable to owners of every size and type of boat. The fuel additive, especially, plays an important role, for with its use, the boat owner need no longer drain outboard and marine engine fuel systems before winter storage. A few ounces of marine fuel additive will permit full fuel tank winter storage, free of gum, rust, corrosion or water-in-gas troubles at spring launching.

And now, the marine specialties section of Du Pont adds further boat care aids to its line.

Among them is a boat bottom cleaner which removes scum and algae (not barnacles) from boat bottoms and lower units of outboards without the need of scraping; fiberglass cleaner, in paste form, which removes dirt and small scratches; and a 'giant deckhand,' described as the biggest sponge afloat, designed for cleaning large areas. If you spring a leak, you'll find it's a staunch friend for fast bailing.

Camera and Imagination Pay Off In Pictures You Will Cherish

When heading for that hard-won vacation, a "must" as part of your vacation equipment is your trusty camera—still or motion picture—and a good supply of color and black and white film.

However, to really get good results, there are some tips to observe, whether you're heading for the beach or forest greenery and majestic mountain peaks. At the beach, watch your backgrounds and try to eliminate the clutter of beach umbrellas or buildings that might detract from your subject. A picture of a person can often be improved by bringing the camera closer. This eliminates irrelevant material.

Set your camera for bright conditions. Light reflected from an expanse of sand can cause overexposure, even on hazy days. High noon is not a good time for pictures of people. the sun directly overhead casts harsh shadows around the eyes, nose and neck. Shoot during the morning or afternoon, or use flash to soften the shadows.

When touring or camping in a countryside rich in woodland and mountain scenes, strive to sharpen pictures of lens-catching lakes or peaks with an interesting subject in the foreground. This gives clarity, height and breadth to the picture. Members of your party, a picturesque spread of branches, a boat in the lake, or a park animal may furnish what is needed.

Weightless New Swimsuits Bait for Admiring Glances

From the swimsuit design studios comes news: the swimsuit collections will feature radiant and rich colors, more imaginative styles and will weigh next to nothing. A whole new range of miracle fabrics, never before available to swimsuit designers, has been perfected.

The designers created swimsuits so light in weight that they fold in easy side drapings and soft surplice tops. The colors are reminiscent of tropical fruits and flowers. There is also a group of suits in satin finish latex, so weightless it fits like a second skin.

As airy as possible is another group of suits in fabric laminated and integrated with foam rubber. Soft to the touch, light on the body, the tensile strength of these suits is startling. Some weigh less than two ounces, exclusive of the built-in bras.

Another group of suits is, believe it or not, transparent when held up to the light. These suits become opaque on the body, yet retain their gossamer lightness of weight.

MOTOR STORAGE TIP

It's no longer necessary to drain outboard and marine engine fuel systems before winter storage if you use an additive developed by Dup Pont that prevents formation of gum.

First Aid Kits Help Reduce Discomfort of Accidents

Whether you're planning a weekend in the country, a cross-country driving trip, an afternoon at the swimming pool, or an after-work game of tennis—it's a fact that you have to feel fit if you want to enjoy the outing to its fullest. A seemingly minor accident or illness, such as a bruised finger or a headache, often can be enough to ruin what would otherwise be a fine time.

A little advance thinking, however, can make a big difference, if you remember to keep a few essential first aid supplies with you at all times.

One good idea is to make several well-equipped, but small easy-to-carry first aid kits. Use any cardboard or tin box, and make enough kits so you'll have one for the glove compartment of the car, one to stow away with your fishing gear, one for the kitchen and the workshop, and a few extras to toss in with your tennis equipment, beach bag or sailing supplies.

Here's a recommended list of items to be included in your pocket-sized first aid kit: Aspirin, a small tube of petroleum jelly for treatment of mild burns, cuts or abrasions, six to eight individually-wrapped one-inch adhesive gauze pads for bandaging cuts, an ammonia inhalant in case of fainting, a tube of balm to protect lips from extreme windburn or sunburn, about six antiseptically treated cotton swab sticks for disinfecting open wounds, and a small vial of antismotion sickness pills.

With these supplies and some knowledge of first aid, you can help reduce the discomforts of minor accidents.

Flexibility Gives The Soft Touch To Men's Shoes

The influence of imported shoes, the tremendous growth of casual footwear and new developments in leather tanning all have contributed to focusing the spotlight on the "soft touch" in men's shoes for the spring and summer season.

Imported shoes introduced the feeling of greater flexibility in men's shoes.

Black will keep its preferred color place in business and dress shoes to go with the continued popularity of blues, grays and black.

A variety of colors, however, will be seen in casual shoes along with very lightweight leathers and construction. The high-fashion accents in casual a masculine variation of the bone tone, cactus in a dull light green hue and a completely new shade called Spanish moss, that looks like dark cafe au lait.

The "soft touch" is emphasized in the leathers and in the construction of the shoe.

Thin marble panels in the ceiling of the Lincoln Memorial were treated with beeswax to give translucence.

Plan Trip To Eat Up Miles Safely and Without Fatigue

By proper scheduling of your daily driving, you can make this year's family vacation a pleasant and relaxing experience instead of a fatiguing and dangerous ordeal.

Plan to start your daily driving during the early morning hours when traffic is light. An early before-breakfast start will put lots of relatively easy driving behind you before the highways get crowded.

A light, easily digested breakfast and another two hours of driving will enable you to cover from 150 to 200 miles by mid-morning, when a coffee-break should be taken.

After another 90 minutes on the highway, a light lunch will prepare you for the last driving stretch of the day. A final two hours on the highway will wind up your day's driving, leaving plenty of time to secure good motel or hotel accommodations, enjoy sightseeing and have a good night's sleep.

A schedule of about six hours of driving a day enables you to cover between 300 and 350 miles, the limit recommended by most driving authorities. To make 500 or 600 miles a day turn vacation trips into driving marathons that leave them physically exhausted and prone to make mistakes that could result in accidents.

Some vacationers like to drive at night, but statistics indicate after dark driving is about three times more hazardous than daytime travel. It's difficult after dark to make out unlighted intersections, sharp curves and unexpected turns. If signs along the road are not reflective enough to be seen after dark, a driver can easily lose his way.

Proper scheduling that ends the driving day by mid afternoon enables drivers to avoid nighttime hazards and fatigue caused by overdriving.

Music and TV For the Beach

The transistor radio, so popular with sun bathers on the beach now is packaged in a variety of smart cases, including one that transforms into a cigarette box and another into a jewelry case. One of these attractively packaged sets has a leather carrying case, earphones and an extra battery.

One of the pleasant aspects of the new transistor sets from the standpoint of the innocent bystander is that the earphones provide quiet listening for the enthusiast so that his neighbors on the beach may enjoy peaceful sunbathing minus music if they so desire.

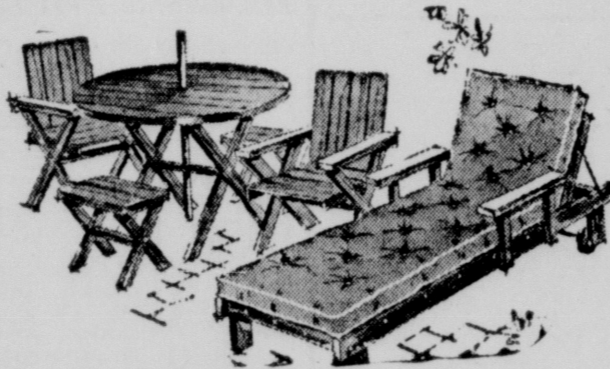

Outdoor entertainment for the television fan has been simplified with a portable television set, which has a 17-inch tube and built-in antenna and may be had with a cast aluminum stand on rollers for easy transportation.

A new portable record player with lift-away lid has a second speaker for stereo-hi-fi that provides full-range sound.

Tape Recorder Will Provide Sound Effects for Slides

Ever look at slides of that favorite vacation and wish you could hear the sounds—a waterfall's rushing, a jet engine's whine—that would bring your pictures to life?

By using a portable, battery-operated tape recorder at the same time you are snapping your photos you can capture these important sounds and, once home, edit both slides and sounds into "sound snaps."

With the new tape recorder-slide projector synchronizers and recorders with sensing devices that now are available, all that will be required once you load your slides is that you sit back and enjoy the show.

To select and arrange your slides in the best order, obtain a large sheet of plate glass about two feet by three feet. Support this on two sides at a comfortable height above the floor, and place a desk light, turned up, underneath. On top of the glass, spread a thin sheet of tracing paper, or several sheets of thin, "onion skin" typing paper. Then sort out your slides on this diffused lighted surface. The large area will enable you to view over 1000 slides.

This is a good time to write a script and arrange title slides for various groupings of photos. In writing the script, your original location notes can be handsomely supplemented by information in travel folders.

Title slides can be valuable in your groupings. These are easily made by shooting close-ups of travel posters, signs, maps and post cards.

With slides now in order and script prepared, you're ready to put your show together.

While you can read the script "live" during a show, leaving the sound effects to the tape recorder, putting the commentary on tape along with the effects makes the show more enjoyable. To do this, you will have to borrow a second tape recorder or tape deck. You then record your commentary, as well as re-recording the sound effects playing on the other recorder at the same time. After commentary and sound effects are placed on the tape, it must be synchronized.

Attach a piece of Scotch brand sensing tape at those points on the tape at which you desire a slide change. On those recorders with built-in electronic sensing devices, these pieces of sensing tape will activate slide changes.

On recorders without sensing devices, a special, inexpensive synchronizer can be attached. These synchronizers also activate slide changes at those points on the tape where a piece of sensing tape is attached.

For a professional touch when setting up the projector and tape recorder for your show, place your speaker system near the screen and let the sound come from the picture rather than from the recorder at the rear of the room.

RIDE IN SAFETY
No matter how restless passengers become on a long vacation trip by automobile, discourage anyone from sitting sideways or kneeling at a window. A sudden jolt or swerve could cause an accident. If safety belts are not in use, face forward and keep feet firmly on the floor.

Vacation Hideaway Perfect for the Relaxed

Here's a Low-Cost Summer Cottage With Plenty of Room for Four Couples

Ten million Americans will spend their vacations in summer cottages this year. Here's a low-cost, practically maintenance-free retreat with plenty of living room for the typical family, that can be built of wood for about $4,000.

Among its novel features are an open floor plan, which permits you to adjust room size to your needs; screened sliding panels that bring pleasant weather right into the house, but give complete protection against rain and wind, and an area underneath that can be used in many ways.

Built on wood columns attached to concrete piers, the Makani Mai (meaning "Song of the Wind") cottage is sturdy enough to withstand the heaviest rains and strongest winds.

The floor is seven feet above the ground, which provides privacy and lets the house catch every breeze. The overall floor area is 16x21 feet, or a total of 512 square feet—enough for two generous-size bedrooms and separate living room and dining areas.

The house is shaded on all four sides by a four-foot overhang. On one side, there is a porch with durable wood floor decking containing approximately 80 square feet, which is perfect for sunbathing.

In the area beneath the floor, you can store your car, boat, fishing or hunting gear, or you can put a patio, or a shower room for bathers.

The $4,000 price tag covers clearing of your building site, construction of the house, and installation of bathroom and kitchen plumbing. You can have a fireplace and storm shutters for about $1,500 extra.

When guests spend a weekend, you can convert the living and dining areas easily into sleeping quarters. Up to four couples can live comfortably in this cottage, and the interior partitions can be arranged to provide privacy for everyone.

RESTING ON LONG pillars seven feet above the ground, the Makani Mai vacation house looks like a tree house. Actually, it's much more practical. Car or boat can be protected from the weather, beneath the cabin.

LILAC FURNITURE

Fashionable lilac is the newest shade for washable outdoor furniture made of tubular aluminum with vinyl chair backs and seats.

TERRY IS VERSATILE

Terrycloth is a welcome guest at banquet and barbecue alike. Whether it's a rustic place mat for the patio or a high-style full cloth for the dining, terrycloth is now appropriate.

Here Are Steps To Foil Insects

An outdoor garden party can be practically ruined if unwanted pests—mosquitoes, flies and other insects—decide to join your guests in the food fare.

You're not entirely at the mercy of the intruders, however. Eugene Mace, entomologist, suggests steps to foil the party crashers.

Empty containers that might catch rain water. Mosquito larvae develop only in standing stagnant water. Keep drain pipes unclogged so water doesn't collect. Get rid of potted tree stumps where water accumulates.

If you have an ornamental pond, add some surface-feeding minnows. They're great mosquito larvae gobblers.

Hose out garbage cans occasionally. When dry, spray with a residual type insecticide.

Cut the grass. If it's high, mosquitoes may seek shelter there from sun and wind by day and still be there at night.

Set tables away from trees, shrubs and other foliage if possible. They're hiding places for biting foes.

Before exposing food, if it isn't a windy day, mist the party area. Use a space insecticide rather than a residual type to spray the air. You'll want the mist to drift into shrubs, hedges and down into the lawn. So be sure any household aerosol insecticide employed is labeled for use on plants, too.

To help fight flies, pick up as the party progresses.

If the party goes on after dark, use yellow lights to illuminate the area because many winged visitors are less attracted to this color.

To discourage the few hungry invaders who may still penetrate your outer defenses, try an application of insect repellent to ankles, arms and other exposed areas. A few sprays from a nongreasy type should do the trick.

Deodorants, Swim Suits Go Together

Who said bathing suits and deodorants don't go together? Summer living out-of-doors has become a way of life. But good grooming shouldn't stop at the front door.

In warmer weather, use a deodorant twice a day, once, immediately after your morning shower and, second time around, when you freshen up for the evening.

When packing your beauty bag, include a deodorant which dries instantly, such as a pad deodorant. The pad is disposable and a fresh one used each time.

Check the "pH" or acidity factor of your deodorant. A high or very low "pH" factor means a possible irritation factor.

Last, don't be selfish. Advise the men and teen-agers in your family to use deodorants.

A CASE FOR FLIES

Fishing buffs are now keeping their favorite flies and spinners in a plastic case with foam rubber lining.

Boating enthusiasts find that a small amount of detergent poured into bilgewater will cut grease and help prevent offensive odor.

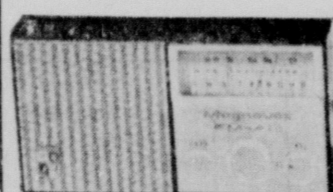

SHARP OUTDOOR photos are a "snap" with an automatic 35 mm camera. The young miss is ready to be photographed, and Mom is fully equipped to take professional quality pictures. By merely pushing a button on her camera, she will activate the "electric eye" which measures available light, adjusts the lens aperture, and snaps the shutter to produce a perfect picture—instantly. There's no need to be an expert.

Give Your Eyes Change of 'View Point' on Vacation

When you decide to take that vacation this year, it's a good idea to give your eyes a vacation too.

That means a complete rest and a change of "view point." The best way to achieve this is to select a new eye make-up wardrobe, one which is adapted to the needs of your specific summer frolic.

Sand and surf devotees, for example, should definitely keep their eye cosmetics at "see level." Bright mascara hues of blues, greens and purples accent the eyes and serve as colorful foils for gay swim caps and beach hats.

It's important to select mascara that's truly waterproof. Girls who prefer to travel light can also use waterproof cake mascara as a lid liner. Just dab a thin brush into lightly moistened mascara and draw a sliver-thin line across the lids at the root of the lashes.

For nonsmeary brows, include a brow brush in the toilette which can be dabbed into brown or black waterproof mascara. To apply properly, use feather-light strokes; let the mascara dry and then go over the brows with a dry brush.

For dancing in the evenings, eye shadow now comes in pressed powder form for a subtle, muted effect that's never overdone or obviously noticeable.

If a good deal of car driving is on the agenda, a harmless and effective eye drop is a glove compartment must.

Part of every woman's vacation beauty plans should also include herb-saturated eye pads for quick pick-ups, after a day of strenuous sports, exposure to the great outdoors tends to tire the eyes. These soothing pads, or even an ice pack, placed gently over each eye for about five minutes, does wonders to alleviate strain.

Try to keep vacation eye make-up simple yet varied. There's no advantage in being overburdened with a myriad of useless items. Just select those with specific uses, and choose products that are unbreakable and travel well.

Make Trip's Lunch A Picnic Meal

Without a doubt, the great American vacation is the automobile vacation. Into the car we pile and off we go—dad, mom, the youngsters and even the family pup—and a wonderful time is had by all.

One way to keep expenses down and also enjoy good meals is to make lunch a picnic meal. There are picnic areas everywhere designed especially for the pleasure of motorists. Drive in and enjoy an outdoor meal in the cool shade of tall trees.

You'll need such basic equipment as a can opener, bottle opener, sharp knife, vacuum bottle, a supply of paper cups, plates, napkins, straws, aluminum foil, plastic forks and spoons and waxed garbage bags. Now you're all set.

Every morning somewhere along your route you will in all likelihood home to a shopping center on the outskirts of a town where you can purchase fresh foods for your picnic lunch and have your vacuum bottle filled.
